

Looking Over Kingston's New Charter Proposals

The following series of articles will present in complete form the Proposed City Charter as developed by the Charter Revision Committee.

For a number of months a charter commission composed of Aldermen John Schwenk, Paul Zucca, Jacob H. Tremper, Jr., and Joseph Epstein, together with Jay Terry, president of the Kingston Taxpayers' Association, William B. Byrne, Walter E. Joyce, Corporation Counsel M. V. Cahill and Mayor C. J. Heiselman, has been writing a plan to modernize the city government and do away with much of the alleged inefficiency that exists at present under the board system. The results of the commission efforts will be found in the following series of articles, of which this is the eighth.

ARTICLE XIV

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Section 95. Health Officer; subordinates.

96. Powers and duties.
97. Sanitary code.
98. Violations and penalties.
99. Existing regulations.
100. Appointment of experts.
101. Actions to restrain nuisances.
102. Duty in case of peril to public health.
103. Enforcement.
104. Abating nuisances upon property.

Sec. 95. HEALTH OFFICER; SUBORDINATES. The Health Officer shall be the head of the Department of Public Health. He shall appoint, to hold during his pleasure, except as otherwise provided by law, such subordinates as may be prescribed by the Board of Estimate. In case of the absence or disability of the Health Officer or a vacancy in the office, the Mayor shall appoint a qualified person to discharge the duties of the office until the Health Officer returns, his disability ceases or the vacancy is filled.

Sec. 96. POWERS AND DUTIES. The Health Officer shall exercise all the powers and be charged with all the duties now or hereafter conferred upon the Health Officer by the laws of this State as far as the same pertain to cities of the third class, except as limited or extended by the provisions of this Charter, and shall also possess such powers and perform such duties as may be prescribed by ordinance of the Common Council or otherwise by law.

Sec. 97. SANITARY CODE. The Health Officer shall formulate, adopt, promulgate, and enforce complete rules, regulations, orders and directions for the security of life and health in the city, which shall not be inconsistent with the State Sanitary Code enacted by the Public Health Council. Such rules, regulations, orders and directions shall be known as the Sanitary Code of the City of Kingston. The Health Officer, in conjunction with the Plumbing Inspector, shall formulate, adopt and promulgate rules and regulations for plumbing and drainage which shall govern the same. Such rules and regulations shall be included in and constitute a part of such Sanitary Code. Before such rules and regulations shall take effect they shall be approved in writing by the Mayor.

Sec. 98. VIOLATIONS. Any person who shall wilfully violate neglect or refuse to comply with any provision or requirement of this Article or any provisions of such Sanitary Code, or of any rule, regulation or order or special direction duly made or of any rule, regulation or order thereunder as authorized by this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Sec. 99. EXISTING REGULATIONS. The existing Sanitary Code of the City and all the rules, regulations and special directions heretofore duly formulated, adopted and promulgated by the Board of Health, shall continue in full force and effect, except as the same may be revised, altered, amended or annulled from time to time as provided in this Article.

Sec. 100. APPOINTMENT OF EXPERTS. The Health Officer, with the consent of the Mayor and subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate, may temporarily employ such health and sanitary experts as may be necessary at a compensation to be fixed by the Board of Estimate.

Sec. 101. ACTIONS TO RESTRAIN NUISANCES. The Health officer is authorized, by and with the advice and consent of the Corporation Counsel, in the name of the City to maintain actions to restrain the threatened performance or the continued performance of any act contrary to his orders, directions, decisions or ordinances, and to restrain and abate nuisances, and for the purpose of obtaining a temporary injunction in any such action no undertaking shall be required.

Sec. 102. DUTY IN CASE OF PERIL TO PUBLIC HEALTH. In case of great and imminent peril to the public health of the city, it shall be the duty of the Health Officer, with the sanction of the Common Council, if it be practicable to convene that body for prompt action, or if not, with the approval of the Board of Estimate, to take such measures and to do, order or cause to be done such acts and to make such extraordinary expenditures in excess of the sum appropriated to the Department of Health as provided by law for the preservation and protection of the public health as he may deem necessary and proper. Such peril to public health shall be deemed to exist only when and for such period as the Health Officer, the Board of Estimate, and the Common Council shall so determine.

Sec. 103. ENFORCEMENT. The Chief of Police shall whenever requested in writing by the Health Officer, with the approval of the Mayor, detail such number of regular policemen as shall be specified in such request who shall while so detailed serve under the direction of the Health Officer.

Sec. 104. ABATING NUISANCES UPON PROPERTY. The Health Officer shall have power to enter upon property, both public and private, and to remove accumulations of rubbish and deleterious matter therefrom, to fill in depressions where the water is likely to gather and stagnate, and to abate any other conditions creating or tending to create a condition detrimental to the health, safety and general welfare of the immediate neighborhood or the public at large. Where the owner of property upon which any accumulations of rubbish and deleterious matter or depression or condition detrimental to health, safety and general welfare exists, shall fail to abate, remove or fill in the same within five days after written notice so to do has been served upon him, either personally or by delivering the same at his last known place of residence, or if he be a non-resident by mailing the same to him at his last known place of residence, or if the name of the owner or his place of residence cannot be ascertained after due diligence, by posting the same in a conspicuous place upon the premises, the Health Officer shall have said rubbish and deleterious matters removed and said depressions filled in and conditions abated, and the expense of removing or filling in or abating the same, when certified by the Health Officer to the Common Council, shall be paid by the city and such amount shall thereupon be and become a lien upon the lot or premises where such rubbish, deleterious matter, depression or condition existed, and shall be levied, collected, enforced and collected in the same manner, by the same proceedings and under the same penalties as an assessment for a public improvement.

ARTICLE XV

DEPARTMENT OF LAW

Section 105. Corporation Counsel.

106. Powers and duties.
107. Docket and Accounting for City Property.
108. Certification and approval of contracts and conveyances.
109. Compromise of Claims.
110. Employment of Counsel.
111. Police to aid Corporation Counsel.

Acute Uneasiness Over Integrity of Austria's Frontiers Is Manifest

NOT FINAL

Hungarian Patriots State That They Will Never Recognize The Versailles Settlement as Final.

By WADE WERNER

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Vienna, April 3 (AP).—Acute uneasiness over the integrity of Austria's eastern frontiers, resulting from Germany's sudden repudiation of the military restrictions of the treaty of Versailles, was manifest here today.

The anxiety prevailing in some quarters is that Germany, by "wrecking" the structure of Versailles, has strengthened immensely Hungary's hopes of territorial revision. Such hopes are most likely to be realized at the expense of Austria, because Austria is the weakest of Hungary's neighbors and least likely to fight to the last ditch.

By the peace treaty of St. Germain, which sequestered the great empire of the Hapsburgs down to a little country of 6,500,000 inhabitants, Austria lost large German-speaking districts to Czechoslovakia, but was given certain western districts of Hungary.

This slinging of a part of Hungary was not in response to Austrian demands. Admirers of Georges Clemenceau have said the French statesman merely wanted to be sure there would be a bone of contention between Austria and Hungary, and therefore insisted on making a peace treaty gift to Austria at Hungary's expense.

At the time the transfer of territory was scheduled to become effective (September, 1921), guerrilla warfare suddenly flared up against the Austrian authorities who attempted to take possession of the Burgenland and its principal city, Sopron. The international commission supervising the transfer appealed to the council of ambassadors, Italy offered to mediate, and a protocol was signed at Venice whereby Austria and Hungary agreed to a plebiscite.

When the plebiscite was held, Sopron voted for Hungary. So Austria finally got its new province minus its principal city and rail center, and Hungary got a few square miles of territory containing a city cut off from its natural hinterland.

The circumstances under which the Burgenland came to Austria, however, make the Austro-Hungarian border in many respects the weakest of the treaty borders. Hungarian patriots say they will never recognize the Versailles settlement as final.

"When the moment comes for the first practical move toward territorial revision," a prominent Austrian told the writer, "you will see that Hungary will make it, and Hungary will be forced by practical considerations to make it in the direction of least resistance."

Asked how such a move by Hungary could be reconciled with the Austro-Hungarian pact of cooperation, he shrugged his shoulders.

"Such things are subject to rapid change," he said. "When the time comes, Hungary will be cooperating closely with Germany."

Swanson said Germany's proposal of a 450,000-ton navy should not affect the 5-5-3 treaty ratios "as far as Great Britain and Japan are concerned," nor the United States. "If we get a treaty navy and continue it."

The naval secretary emphasized he spoke as an individual and had received no German proposal. Asked if he favored specifically 450,000 tons for Germany, Swanson said "it was a state department matter."

Simultaneously, Swanson announced that Frank B. Upham, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, would visit Yokohama aboard his flagship, the new 10,000-ton cruiser Augusta, on May 3. On this day the main fleet is scheduled to begin its Pacific maneuvers.

Swanson described the visit as "good will tour," and expressed hope that it would dispel "any bad feeling" in Japan over the maneuvers.

Declares Legislature Will Adjourn Next Week

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—Assembly Speaker Irwin Steingut today informed Governor Herbert H. Lehman that the 1935 session of the New York legislature will adjourn by the end of next week at the latest.

The prediction was made at a brief conference between the speaker and governor in the executive chamber.

Steingut merely smiled when asked if the question of legislative reapportionment was discussed. Assembly Democrats are still split wide open on the question, despite Governor Lehman's threat to appeal directly to the people, if necessary, to obtain its passage. Meanwhile, the legislators considered voluminous calendars of less important bills behind doors closely guarded by doorkeepers to prevent them from leaving the chambers without consent of the speaker.

Mayor Kelly Chosen By Record Vote in the Chicago Elections

(By The Associated Press.)

Progressives strengthened their position in Wisconsin and Union Sinclear's Epic party achieved partial success in California to high-light elections in various parts of the nation.

Two more Progressives were elected to the Wisconsin State Senate yesterday, bringing the LaFollette-aligned party within one vote of the Democratic majority in a show of force interpreted in some quarters as a vote of confidence in the third party that put Gov. Philip LaFollette into office three months ago.

A Republican Assemblyman was elected from a normally Republican district, but Progressives maintained their wide margin of power in the lower house.

In Los Angeles, one city councilman was re-elected by the Sinclear forces, whose "end poverty in California" campaign failed to elect the former Socialist as governor a few months ago. Apparently from 10 to 15 Epic council candidates were assured of positions in the run-off election May 7.

The Epic movement, however, placed only three out of ten candidates in the municipal judgeship race. A striking display of strength was exhibited by Chicago Democrats who rolled up 798,150 ballots to retain Mayor Edward J. Kelly at the head of the nation's second city, snowing under Republican Emil Wetten, who gleaned 166,571 votes, and Newton Jenkins, Independent, with 87,726.

Some observers saw the Chicago display as a bid for attention from national Democratic leaders, who, some Cook county "party members" said, have ignored the Chicago Democracy. Kelly's vote broke all Chicago mayoral records.

Unofficially, Baltimore gave Mayor Howard W. Jackson a 25,572 plurality for the Democratic nomination, a total regarded as a convincing victory over the Democratic city machine, carrying with him a slate of councilmen to assure control of the city legislative body if he is elected.

Corpus Christi, Tex., remained quiet after Texas Rangers and city police patrolled an election that officials feared would bring bloodshed. A political shake-up was presaged by election of Dr. H. R. Giles as mayor.

Voters of Oklahoma City approved oil drilling operations within 400 feet of the governor's mansion. A political figure of 23 years' dominance fell when Zon, Ill., voters elected a slate of city officials opposed by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Illinois religious colony.

ADAMS BILL

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—The New York Senate today had before it the Stewart bill requiring that defendants setting up alibis shall furnish the prosecuting officer with a bill of particulars explaining where they were at the time of the offense. It passed the Assembly yesterday by a vote of 98 to 12. Assemblyman George W. Stewart, Kincaid Democrat and sponsor of the proposal, pointed out that out of 20,000 persons charged with having committed felonies in New York City in one year only 15 per cent were convicted.

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, April 3 (AP).—The position of the treasury on April 1 was: Receipts, $35,196,922.23; expenditures, $37,846,189.74; balance, $2,442,192,614.94. Customs receipts for the month, $2,696,678.49. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,878,456,664.67; expenditures, $5,989,545,754.13 (including $2,431,154,567.81 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $3,111,089,089.46.

Deacon Man Elected

Omaha, Neb., April 2 (AP).—H. Mortimer Brookway of Deacon, N. Y., was elected executive secretary of the Society of American Florists and Decorative Horticulturists last night. A. M. Davenport, of Wantagh, N. Y., retiring president, and his wife, were presented with a silver tea service at the national flower show.

Military Review.

Vienna, April 3 (AP).—Addressing troops from Yugoslavia indicated the country is on the verge of a military dictatorship which some observers believe will be placed in effect before the parliamentary elections called for May 5.

Proposed Charter Was Filed By Committee At Council Meeting Here

Copies of Charter Furnished Each Alderman and Charter Will Come Up for Adoption or Rejection at May Meeting.

OTHER MATTERS

Schiskey Files Claim With Common Council For $6 For Damage To His Trousers.

The city charter revision committee after five months of study and work filed with the Common Council on Tuesday evening the proposed new city charter that had been drafted. The charter was introduced in the council meeting by Alderman Kolts and seconded by Alderman Leirey and after it had had its first reading a copy was furnished each alderman who will have 30 days to read and study it. The charter will come up for adoption or rejection at the May meeting of the council, and if adopted will be submitted to the people at a special election to be held later in the year.

President John J. Schwenk presided at the meeting with all of the aldermen present. The session was a brief but busy one.

The New City Charter. The charter revision committee filed with the council the proposed new charter together with the following communication:

"As the result of a resolution adopted by your honorable body on October 2, 1934, the undersigned were appointed members of the charter revision committee.

"Your committee has made a careful and exhaustive study of the present charter and after five months of effort, and after consultation with the most competent municipal advice available, have created a charter, which in our opinion, will materially increase the possibilities of more efficient local government.

"We attach hereto a copy of this proposed new charter with the recommendation that it be ratified by your honorable body and submitted to a public referendum, in order that the citizens of the city may have an opportunity to vote thereon."

The communication was signed by Jay Terry, Matthew V. Cahill, W. E. Joyce, Paul A. Zucca, William B. Byrne, J. H. Tremper, Jr., John J. Schwenk, and Mayor C. J. Heiselman.

Alderman Joseph Epstein, who had been named as a member of the committee, did not sign it as he said he had not attended the last few meetings of the committee and desired an opportunity to read over the proposed charter before signing.

Joseph Schiskey filed a claim of $6 which he said it had cost him to have his trousers repaired. He informed the council in a communication that on the evening of March 29 he was walking along Hudson street. He said that the city was doing construction work on that street and had piled dirt and rocks on the sidewalk. It was raining that night and dark, and he stumbled into the pile of debris on the sidewalk before he saw it. He said he fell, injuring his knee and tearing his trousers. He believed the city should compensate him for the trousers. The claim was referred to the auditing committee.

Want Street Rebuilt

Twenty-eight residents of Staples street filed a petition with the council asking that the street be rebuilt. The petition was referred to the Board of Public Works.

On Health Board

Mayor Heiselman filed the nomination of Dr. Harold L. Rakov as a member of the health board and on motion of Alderman Tremper the nomination was confirmed. The mayor also filed the nomination of Louis G. Bruhn as a member of the health board and on motion of Alderman Epstein the nomination was confirmed.

Lt. Barringer Takes To Air in Attempt To Make Hop Record

Noses Famous Glider "Albatross II" Into Brisk Northwest Wind Near Ellenville — Many Spectators Gather At Mt. Mongola For The Take-off.

Lt. L. R. Barringer of Philadelphia took off from Mt. Mongola, on the Shawangunk Mountain south of Ellenville, this morning, in his attempt to break the American and if possible the world record, for distance flying in a glider.

It was 8:30 a. m. when Earl R. Southee, official representative of the National Aeronautic Association, gave the signal and the Albatross II was released and shot into the air with Lt. Barringer at the controls.

It was a perfect start, with a northwest wind estimated to have a force of about 15 miles per hour blowing along the face of the mountain. The Albatross II gained altitude rapidly as it headed west from the mountain and then took a southwest course up the Rondout and Mamaroneck Valleys. In the direction of Port Jervis, following along the mountain range in order to take advantage of the wind currents blowing up the mountain slopes.

Mr. Southee said this morning that when last seen by observers at the take-off point the Albatross II had attained an altitude of around 3,000 feet above the floor of the valley and apparently was making in the neighborhood of 50 miles per hour.

Lt. Barringer, who arrived in Ellenville Sunday with his sailplane, had been awaiting favorable weather reports before making his attempt for a record flight. This morning reports were received from Dr. James H. Kimball, head of the New York Weather Bureau and Dr. Karl O. Lange of the meteorological department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Both agreed that the outlook was for a northwest wind which would persist throughout the day, all along the contemplated course of the flight, which is planned to follow the Shawangunk, Kittatinny and Blue Ridge mountains to Carlisle, just below Harrisburg, Pa., and from there, if the wind continues favorably down along the Shenandoah Valley into Virginia.

Should Lt. Barringer succeed in reaching Carlisle he will have broken the American record of 163 miles for gliders, made at Elmira last June by Richard C. duPont. From Carlisle the next range of mountains there is a gap of some 13 miles, which, with the wind maintaining its velocity the sail plane should have a good chance of spanning today.

In that event Lieutenant Barringer would be enabled to continue his flight in a try for the world record, 233 miles. The present flight is under sanction, having been sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association and also by the international body, the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

Many spectators gathered at Mt. Mongola for the take-off this morning, some 50 cars being in evidence at various times, but the air was pretty chilly at that elevation in the early morning hours and many failed to stay it out. Among those present when the take-off was made were District Attorney Hopkins, chief of Police Richard Porter of Ellenville, former Mayor Floyd Ackery and others.

Mr. Southee said that the location had wonderful possibilities for sail-plane flying and there would probably be other attempts made from that section. He said that he and the other members of Lt. Barringer's party had greatly appreciated the kindness shown them by the people of the valley during their stay, that the visit had been a most enjoyable one and that they hoped to return at some future time.

Fire At Tarrytown

Tarrytown, N. Y., April 3 (AP). Fire for a time today threatened the three-story building housing the Tarrytown National Bank and Trust Company and offices. It was brought under control after damage of $10,000 had been done. The blaze started apparently in the basement near the furnace from unknown origin and spread rapidly through partitions and upward. Greatest damage was done to the law offices of Doyle & Chesari. Firemen, halted at first by thick clouds of smoke while the fire threatened to get out of hand, used two partitions and covered desks in the bank to prevent spread of flames. Extra police were called to keep back crowds and guard the bank which had just opened for business.

Signs Fischer Bill

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP). Governor Herbert H. Lehman today signed the Fischer bill extending to April 1, 1937 the time within which most state investments may be modified and extended by persons holding trust funds and by banks and other corporations who have made investments.

League Draft.

Geneva, April 3 (AP). The League of Nations today sent to its members a draft convention designed to promote peace by preventing the spread of infectious diseases. The draft, consisting of matters likely to cause war, was sent to the members of the League.

Plans and Survey Completed for Building New Road Between Kingston and West Hurley To Hook up to Ashokan Boulevard.

THE BY-PASS HERE

Similar Difficulty With Conservation Land Said to be Confronting East Chester St. By-Pass.

Plans and survey have been completed for the building of a new state road from Kingston to Stony Hollow to West Hurley where the new road would hook up to the present Ashokan Boulevard, but the building of the road is being delayed because it would be necessary to cut down what is said to be a small number of scrub trees on property of the State Conservation Commission, and the conservation commission has so far refused permission to release the land needed to the state highway department for road purposes. The same difficulty has arisen in the construction of the proposed East Chester street by-pass for Route 9-W.

The new alignment for the proposed state road from Kingston to West Hurley would eliminate many dangerous curves in the road from Stony Hollow to West Hurley and also between Kingston and Stony Hollow, and would also eliminate the use of the viaduct over the railroad at Stony Hollow. There is also a possibility that the Washington avenue viaduct would also be eliminated if the new road is built.

The hitch in the proposal to build the new road is due to the fact that the road as proposed passes through three small parcels of land owned by the State Conservation Commission which the commission states it can not release to the state highway department for road purposes as to build the road would require the cutting down of some trees along the site of the new road.

The same difficulty has arisen in the proposed construction of the East Chester street by-pass of Route 9-W, where the new road after leaving the city crosses for a distance of about 600 feet on land owned by the state conservation commission. Word to that effect was received Tuesday by Mayor C. J. Heiselman.

That afternoon Commissioner Bernard Roach of the Board of Public Works and City Engineer Henry Darrow went over the proposed route of the East Chester street by-pass and on the land of the conservation commission that it was planned to use it was found that only a few scrub oak would have to be cut down for the new road. They informed the mayor that the trees on the conservation property were mostly scrub and that a number of trees had already been cut down for firewood by needy families in an effort to keep warm the past winter.

It is said that the land in the rear of the City Home had been acquired by the state conservation commission at a tax sale, and that the three parcels near Stony Hollow were also acquired by the commission at a tax sale, and that land thus acquired automatically went into the forest preserve of the state, and no trees may be cut down in the forest preserve.

Mayor Heiselman was in touch with the state highway department by telephone this morning and was informed that efforts were being continued to use the land needed for the two state roads.

Ticket Committee For Benedictine Ball

Although the ticket committee for the Easter Monday Ball, which is the annual charity ball of the Benedictine Hospital, had not been announced, the ladies had been approached and a number of tickets have been sold.

The ticket committee is composed as follows: Chairman, Miss Mary F. Campbell; members, Mrs. N. J. J. Murphy, Mrs. Mark O'Meara, Mrs. Mary McGill, Mrs. Frank J. Weaver, Mrs. Theresa Brophy, Mrs. James T. O'Connell, Mrs. Gustave Kogel, Mrs. Walter Miller and Mrs. John Cuff. The ladies are very happy over the reception given to those who have already begun the sale of tickets. There seems to be in the community a keen appreciation of the fact that even with the Salvation Army and the relief by parliament, there are many cases of sickness and unemployment, and that the two of the organizations, and the charity ball of the Benedictine Hospital, are the only means of helping out the people who are in need of help and are suffering the hard times.

Deaths. Mrs. John J. O'Connell, 77, died at her home, 100 West 10th St., on Tuesday, April 2, 1935. She was born in Ireland and had been a resident of Kingston for many years. She was a member of the St. Patrick's Church and was a devout Catholic. She is survived by her husband, John J. O'Connell, and several children. The funeral will be held on Thursday, April 4, at 10 o'clock, at the St. Patrick's Church. Burial will be in the St. Patrick's Cemetery.

Nurses Rushed Today To Check Epidemic

Baldwinsville, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—Additional nurses were rushed to Baldwinsville today to aid in checking an outbreak of septic sore throat believed caused by milk from one diseased cow.

At present 200 cases have been reported among the village's 3,805 citizens and health officials expect the number to rise to at least 230.

Three nurses were assigned to the village yesterday and five more were scheduled to arrive today.

Dr. Fred W. Graves, senior state milk sanitarian, and M. P. Klosser of Geneva, district state milk sanitarian, have ordered seventeen dairy herds placed under observation.

"Mr. Klosser," Graves said, "will remain in the village to keep strict vigilance over all dairies until the source is discovered. We believe that a single cow has furnished the milk containing the vicious organism."

"By a process of elimination, Mr. Klosser will reduce observation to one or two herds until the diseased cow is found."

He added that persons need not fear infection if they drink pasteurized milk.

In some Baldwinsville homes, whole families were taken ill. In one case a father, mother and three children were under medical care.

HAUPTMANN TRIAL SHOWS EXACT WOOD SCIENCE

The Hauptmann trial brought to public notice a comparatively new science called Wood Technology. One phase of this science was revealed in the very important if not vital testimony of Arthur Koehler of the United States Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin, says the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse, N. Y.

This science, which is taught at the college, is infallible so far as the identification of various kinds of wood is concerned. And those who are familiar with this new development in forestry appreciated how accurate the identification of the wood in the Hauptmann ladder was and what a profound effect it must have had upon the jury.

A very interesting phase of the Hauptmann ladder was the fact that there were a number of different woods used in its construction. The wood technologist found that the two bottom rails of the ladder were made of yellow pine of the type commonly called North Carolina pine but the two rails of the middle section were made of wood that came from the Pacific coast known as Douglas fir; and the right-hand rail of the top section was also of Douglas fir. The left-hand rail of the top section was North Carolina pine. This is the one that Mr. Koehler determined as having come from Hauptmann's attic. He also was able to trace the two bottom pine rails first to the mill in South Carolina that planed the lumber and from there to the lumberyard in the Bronx where Hauptmann worked. The top rung of the ladder was made of Douglas fir and the rest of the rungs were made of ponderosa pine. The two dowels in the ladder were made of yellow birch.

Thus it will be seen through the developments of modern science that wood, no matter how far removed it may be from the place in which it grew or how untrained the eye or even the eyes of lumbermen who are familiar with the tree, scientific methods of technology may be positively identified and traced to its origin.

SOUTH ROUNDOUT

South Rondout, April 3.—Mrs. Julia Mahns, and Mrs. Harry Mahns of Esopus, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maurer of Connelly, motored to Jersey City on Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carroll there. Mrs. Carroll was formerly Miss Vera Dunsen, a granddaughter of Mrs. Mahns.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Snyder were callers recently of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fairbrother and family of Port Ewen.

Prayer service in the M. E. Church on Thursday evening to which all are invited.

Mrs. Harriet Hotelling, who has been spending the winter at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Boyce, of New York city, is at present visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hotelling of Briarcliff.

George Schick, who is employed in Sidney, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Schick, Sr., of Third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Clair and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Avery spent Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Myers of South Broadway, Port Ewen.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Ryan of Palisades Park, N. Y., spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wesley and daughter, Lillian, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Wesley on Sunday evening after a motor trip in company with Mrs. Kathryn Hood from Oradell, N. J., where they were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Monloher.

Why You Should Never Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or calluses, do not try the old-fashioned remedy of cutting them. Statistics show that many infections have resulted from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Iodolol, rub a little on any painful corn or callus. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callus will become soft and lift off easily with the fingers—without causing the surrounding skin to become inflamed.

Think together, Iodolol cures such afflictions as corns, blisters, pricks or burning feet and such things most easily and satisfactorily. It is probably responsible for the heavy endorsement given it by druggists.

The old saw that every hard corn will come out when the shoe or painful pressure is taken off is a fallacy. Iodolol cures the corn or callus and the shoe can be worn again and people are freed from the pain.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR JUSTICE SCHIRICK AT ALBANY

Assemblyman Stricken

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—Stricken with a heart attack while in the Lower House, Assemblyman Benjamin Gladstone, Bronx Democrat, was in a critical condition today at Albany Hospital. Hospital attaches said the Bronx legislator's condition was "slightly improved" over yesterday. He was brought to the hospital in an ambulance after he collapsed in the Assembly late yesterday afternoon.

It is said that Russia will organize a baseball league. We would like to see what would happen to a back-scrapper's whiskers if he slid into third base.

We will bet there were not many taxpayers in that Berlin crowd which cheered Hitler when he ordered the size of the standing army increased.

Admits Murders

Shortly after police, led by a howling dog, discovered the bodies of Mrs. Nora Kelly, 63, and her 16-year-old granddaughter, Florence McVay, in a Brooklyn, N. Y., home, Thomas McFarland, 39 (above), Mrs. Kelly's son-in-law, confessed the double murder, according to District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan. (Associated Press Photo)

Fisherman's Luck

Miami, Fla., April 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt's fishing luck wasn't so good off Long Island in the Bahamas group and he planned today to drop anchor off Conception Island, where he fished on his way to Puerto Rico last July. The President apparently was going ahead with previous plans to continue his cruise through the remainder of the week. In a message to Marvin H. McIntyre, his secretary here, the President described his placid attempt at Long Island thus: "Have been fishing all morning off Long Island. Very little luck."

Maybe they could use some of that black western soil dust on those rocky farms in Vermont and New Hampshire.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER, TUGGLES, JR.

Albany, April 3 (Special).—Making good his threat of Monday night, Speaker Irwin Steingut had five state troopers stationed about the two Assembly Chamber entrances yesterday to keep the members in their seats. He was pretty serious about the matter all right, and his action came as direct result of some 30 members shirking legislative duty the previous evening. There were important controversial measures on the calendar and it was necessary for the Democratic party to muster its full strength to put them through.

It was mentioned in this column that there was an undercurrent of feeling existing among certain legislators, and the fact that state police had to be called to check upon actions of the individuals seems to bear this out. The former Speaker of the House, Joseph A. McGinnis, never used armed force to keep his members under control. This is no time for pure speculation, but it has the outward appearance that all is not well in the powerful Democratic camp. Republicans, taking advantage of this situation, are coyly acting up and behaving nicely. Some of them do enjoy a bit of horseplay however, and to this Mr. Steingut is opposed. He has threatened to have the sergeant-at-arms remove the next disturber from the chamber.

Hard Day

Although the Assembly met at a later hour than it was scheduled to do, the members packed in a solid day's work. Not being allowed to leave the chamber, they had their lunch brought up by page boys who struggled under paper bags full of sandwiches and milk bottles. Beer was the diet of a few. Several attempted to get down to the local restaurant but were sent back by the officials. It was nearly three hours before the full Democratic strength was gathered to be pitted against the weaker party on bills arising from political issues. The Speaker must have a sore arm by now from constant banging of the gavel. He pounded unduly for order and many a debater had to be interrupted until quiet within the chamber could be restored.

Automobile Inspection

Among bills that were squeezed through the Assembly by narrow margins was one giving the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles the power to have annual inspection of cars made for safety purposes. This bill was lost last year when it was a mandatory proposal, but now the bill makes optional on the part of the Commissioner. Garages wanting to issue certificates, costing 50 cents, will be required to have a special license at a cost of $7.50. Car owners who are told that certain things must be done to their autos in the way of repairs may demand a detailed statement from the garage concerned. It would seem that this law is an excellent one, inasmuch as too many cars on the highway today without proper brakes, faulty tires, improper lights, and other measures of safety. Some lives are sure to be saved if this bill is passed by the Senate and passed by the Governor, and then enforced. People will object in view of other taxes already levied on the "poor motorists," but at the same time human life cannot be bought for money, and it is worth preserving.

"Joker" Bill

Charging Senator J. C. Baldwin, III, with rambling and sharpshooting methods for enacting legislation for New York city, Democratic leader John J. Dunnigan opposed his ideas of eliminating a referendum on the metropolitan bill that would allow the city to build its own power plant, not in competition with any public utility, without the endorsement of the people. Mr. Baldwin felt that the cost of a special election and the time element of six days that would be necessary to attain this end were quite unnecessary, and that immediate enactment should be made. His chief opponent, however, was Senator Samuel McDanielbaum, who burst into a windy discourse on the matter and delved into historical events of the great Lincoln and Jefferson who held that popular approval should be voiced before such an undertaking.

One thing of significance was the Baldwin put Albany on the spot, for this city had planned to build plants without referendum, and William T. Byrne, the Albanian responsible for the measure, has hurriedly amended it to include popular approval.

Five to One

"One Rensselaer farmer is equal to five Albanians any day, but I did not expect to see it in a bill," declared Maurice Whitney, of the beautiful county. He was attacking the proposed Albany Regional Market Authority that John P. Hayes, local Assemblyman, is anxious to have established, and the bill sets up a commission of five members from Albany county and four others, one from each of the four surrounding counties. Mr. Whitney did not feel that this was just representation, and said so. He asked the introducer what business was being represented by this bill, and the answer came that a $10,000,000 business was in back of the measure. Hayes charged that the market under Republican regime was both a "white elephant" and a "spite market" to farmers in this area of the state.

Long Debate Anticipated

Because of the difficulty that the majority leader had in assembling the necessary 25 Democrats in the Senate for passage of controversial legislation, all matters of this nature have been put over until today. A long debate is anticipated on some of these political footballs, outstanding being the Nassau and Ulster county measures.

Doodling Says Yes

James J. Doodling, who as political head of Tammany Hall has been occupying the spotlight over the reappointment battle, stated that he was personally in favor of the present proposed bill that has passed the Senate and been defeated in the Assembly. He did not vote for the bill in the Assembly. Several of the legislature would vote however. Now he favors the plan of Louis A. Cuvillier and Arthur Swartz to have a constitutional convention next year for the express purpose of writing a bill into the constitution, and there will be no question then by the courts of the legality of such an act. This is the crux of party differences over the measure, besides the insurgency of Tammanyites who have failed to rally to their party leaders in passage of this bill.

Social Legislation

But a far more immediately serious puzzle has the governor worried than the political entanglement of reappointment. It is the Byrne-

Killgrew unemployment insurance measure that the Senators are checking by a stall in committee. They are insistent that this should not be passed until Congress acts. This, it may be recalled, was the attitude spoken by Minority Leader Irving M. Ives when it was presented to the Assembly. The lower house members voted for it, all Democrats and 25 Republicans; they are running for re-election this fall. The Senators, who have another year before they have to worry about campaigning, are treading more cautiously on this ground that is not well broken. Carry this attitude to its logical conclusion and ponder over the net result.

What's Doing in the N.Y. Legislature Today

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—What the New York Legislature is doing today:

Both houses meet at 11 a. m. Assembly considers: Four bills designed to broaden powers of state agriculture commissioner in administration of Milk Control Law. Quinn measure, already passed by the Senate, providing for a jury trial in the case of alleged violation of injunction order involving labor disputes. Doodling bill to curb nudism. Senate has heavy calendar of minor legislation.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Object lessons to youths who would embark on a life of crime are the gray-heads that appear in the police line-up at headquarters. For most of them, the end of the trail means either prison bars, cold gray walls and uniforms—or a grave over on Hart's island where sleep the homeless and the nameless. Far different are they from the flashy young racketeers who infest the street corners and who live without honest toil. Yet almost invariably, the start was the same. There were good clothes and bright lights—for a time. Then came those gray walls and the routine of prison life—for a long time. As the years passed, the bright lights became a mere flicker and the gray walls of longer duration. A police record is a cumulative thing—when it comes to serving sentences. For instance, under the laws, a second offender may be given twice as long a sentence for exactly the same offense as a first offender.

The old-timers, provided they have not "gone stir simple"—become simple-minded through confinement and monotony—know that. But there is this trouble. Having made the start, they can't turn back. True, there are men who, having paid their debt to society through prison terms, do not repeat their first mistakes. Some who have risen subsequently in their communities have memories of prison routine. But none can truthfully say that graduation from a penal institution has been a help to them. Rather it has been a handicap. As for those of less strong will, they continue in their course until death finds them a number instead of a name. Or they perish in some miserable hide-out while trying to escape the law.

Recently, there appeared in the line-up an old man known as "Crying John." That name was given him because he has succeeded in crying himself out of many scrapes, an ability to shed real tears being part of his stock in trade. Though he has been arrested 36 times, he has served but seven years. He is also said to be different from ordinary criminals in that he has a bank account. At the moment, he is under indictment for a swindle. Because of his record, if convicted, he will go to prison for a term of years. As he is seventy-six, the chances are excellent that he will die behind bars. So what good to him is his ability to cry and his money in the bank?

A newspaper man becomes acquainted with many different kinds of people. So, included in my acquaintance was a safe robber known as a "good man"—the term having nothing to do with morals since it merely means that he was proficient in his outlawry. Yet, figuring his illegal takings and dividing them by prison terms, he found his income had been less than $500 a year—and he told me that as he was starting to Leavenworth to begin a 10-year term.

Somehow, I feel sorry for Walter. He isn't a crook, but he got mixed up with crooks. When the big drive against known criminals was in progress and the basement of headquarters was filled with prisoners, Walter, a waiter, got permission to sell sandwiches to the captives. Full of hope, he went over with a big tray containing $12 worth of eatables. He came back with $7.65 cash. Some of his customers had obtained rebates without his knowledge and the difference came out of Walter's pocket.

Possibly, a snicker might come in good here. One of the young bloods of the bright lights imbued so much of that which is labeled "bottled in bond" that he passed out. He woke up to his own apartment with all his possessions safe and thought everything was all right until he looked into the glass. Then he discovered he was the possessor of a beautiful shiner. Not daring to face his friends, he remained a prisoner indoors until nightfall. Then he hurried to a gentleman who attends to such things and applied for treatment—only to learn that instead of having been made by a "fat" mouse merely had been painted on by some joking friend. That's a sample of Broadway humor.

Kingston High Loses In Debates

Monday afternoon Kingston High School's negative debating team of Robert Brown, Beverly Berman, Alton Thorpe, and Dallas Reynolds, travelled to Peekskill, where they were defeated by Peekskill High School in a debate on the topic, "Resolved: That the federal government equalize educational opportunity in the various states by means of grants to public elementary and secondary education." The decision on the debate, which was closely contested, was given by a single judge.

On Tuesday afternoon the affirmative debating team met Ossining High School at Kingston. The debate was sufficiently close to split the decision of the judges, with the result that a 2-1 decision was delivered in favor of Ossining. Judges were Bernard Joy, Levan Haver and Mrs. Joseph A. McNelis. Members of the Kingston team were Cecile Thompson, Frederic Holcomb, Frank Schilling and Don McCausland.

This debate gives Kingston a final league standing of three lost, one won, the local squad having defeated Newburgh, while losing to Ossining, Poughkeepsie and Peekskill. However, two of the debates lost were so closely contested that the decision of the judges was split. Poughkeepsie has defeated all opposition in the league schedule, and holds undisputed first place.

Not Terrace High School of Schenectady will next meet the local team in a debate at Schenectady.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, April 3.—Members of the Priscilla Society are asked to come to the Methodist Episcopal Church house at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon to prepare the tables for the conference supper which will be held at 5:30 o'clock that evening.

"Look Who's Here," the three-act comedy which was so successfully given in the Methodist Episcopal Church house a few weeks ago, will be repeated at 8 o'clock this evening. The admission price has been reduced for this repeat performance.

Charles Nicholson, Jr., of Jamaica, L. I., is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. O'Reilly of Main street.

The public is invited to attend the card party which the consistory of the Reformed Church will hold in the church house Thursday evening. Refreshments will be served.

PRIVATE HOUSEKEEPING.

The Soviet Russian government has seen a great light as regards its farming population. It tried to collectivize the farmers completely, as it had done with its industrial workers. The resulting tragedy is known to the world. The sullen peasants killed their live stock rather than turn it over to the government agents. They slanted their crop production. They insisted fiercely on maintaining their family life. So at last the government has learned its lesson. The farmers are to be allowed more individual property, not less.

"You are facing a mass collective movement embracing millions of households," Stalin recently told a group of delegates who asked for a further reduction of individual holdings. "If you want to succeed under present conditions, you must think not only of the collective, but also the individual, interests of farmers. As long as family and children exist, these interests must not be neglected. It is better to admit openly and honestly that there should be private housekeeping on collective farms—small, but private."

So strong is the family instinct and the instinct for individual possessions, especially among rural populations, that any social system trying to destroy them would probably destroy itself. Russian Communism came near doing that very thing. It is only in the cities that private housekeeping can be done away with on any large scale. In capitalist countries, though, we see much of it done voluntarily. What are our luxurious family hotels and apartment houses in the big cities, but "collective housekeeping" institutions?

DEFEND QUINTUPLETS

Possibly we have all taken the prolonged peace and friendship of the United States and Canada too much for granted. This reflection is aroused by the recent flurry about the Dionne quintuplets.

Their threatened kidnapping by bold, bad Americans of unknown identity was probably a mere rumor or an intentional fake. Some nervous newspaper man might have circulated the report to make a good story. Or some casual, half-humorous suggestion might have started it. The Dionne family and the quintuplets' hospital people have all been jumpy since the Canadian government started to adopt the babies as national wards. It was really too wild a yarn for honest belief—that the babies were to be kidnapped, rushed to the Soo in an automobile, and then carried off in an American airplane to Chicago or some other wicked place, so that the kidnappers could sell them to some group of showmen that would make a fortune by exhibiting them around the country.

But if that were true, and if the coup had succeeded, what a to-do there would have been! Our Canadian neighbors would have fought for the honor and possession of those quintuplets as they have never fought us for anything since the war of 1812. It might have brought the whole British Empire down on our necks. Let kidnappers, theatrical exploiters and other evil-doers understand once for all that King George, the governor-general of Canada, the Canadian premier and the premier of Ontario will stand for no nonsense about those babies.

TIMELY TEXTBOOKS

A college professor is using the radio addresses of Father Coughlin as laboratory material for his classes in public speaking. He says: "He is giving my students, especially in argumentation, quite an exciting study in the tricks of emotional appeal." The radio orator's speeches, whatever one thinks of their economic, show considerable knowledge of audience psychology, the resources of rhetoric and the use of the voice in speaking. Analyzing them with attention to such points seems an excellent thing for public speaking students to do.

That stirs up another idea. Are teachers in other subjects making use of current affairs for laboratory material? There is a wealth of material in the daily news which could be used to great advantage in history, economics and political and social sciences classes. Finding the roots and causes of current events would be a most educational process and ought to afford an interesting approach to the above mentioned courses. It may sound a little like beginning at the wrong end of things, but is more likely to develop the mind than the old method of studying dry-as-dust textbooks with no apparent relation between their theories and existing human society.

UNBALANCED WEATHER

While drought is making some normally fertile sections of the United States resemble deserts, excessive rains are making certain sections of Australia resemble jungles. The violent Australian storms, called "knock them down" rains by the natives, are the most intense in years. They are flattening much of the vegetation in north Australia.

In Darwin, however, hot sunshine between rains has caused grasses to grow with something of the speed of Jack's overnight bean stalk. Grass grows ten feet high in the gutters. It is reported that householders are hiring aborigines at a dollar a day to pull up this lush growth from their yards, where it stands almost house-high and threatens to choke them in rank jungle. There are times when, contemplating the vagaries of the weather, a person wishes human beings had some control over it. Then he contemplates human beings and wonders whether, after all, the weather may not be safer uncontrolled.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT FOR COLDS.

In a large city recently 10,000 youngsters were home from school due to illness of which 90 per cent was the common cold. The weather had not been so cold but wet and raw, showing that dampness is at least one factor in causing colds.

That there are other factors—overeating, overheating, exposure, is also agreed, but no one has yet been able to get the special cause of cold and so there is no special or specific treatment.

Dr. P. H. Long, Baltimore, in the Michigan State Medical Society Journal states that as there is no specific remedy for the treatment of colds his observations have led him to believe that the right treatment is to let the patient lie in bed for two or three days, mild laxative is of value and the distressing symptoms should be treated as they appear.

In fact, if the patient is put to bed at once and the intestine kept active many cases are arrested in time that might go on to bronchitis, broncho-pneumonia, or even pneumonia.

As you know nearly everybody has a "sure cure" for a cold which he recommends to sufferers.

Dr. Long points out that all the different forms of treatment now given for colds—hardening exercises, vitamin feeding, ultra violet rays, vaccines—show only too well that there is no "special" cure; that what might seem to help one case is of no value in another.

Dr. Long states finally: "At present, the only prophylaxis (prevention) against colds is avoiding coming in contact with infected persons. There is no other method."

While most physicians will agree with Dr. Long in putting the patient to bed for two or three days as the best treatment, many know from experience that eating less of certain foods and more of others during a epidemic of colds has prevented many colds and lessened the severity of others.

Forbidden foods are table salt, salted butter, smoked meats and fish, sardines, herring, pickles, candies, hot biscuits, highly seasoned sauces. Foods permitted are small amount of meat, eggs, and cereals. Avoid amounts of milk, unsalted butter, vegetables, salads, fruits (fresh or dried).

HONEYMOON

THERE was but one smallest blot on the blueness of the honeymoon. That came toward the end after the arrival of a certain Louis Bradford of New York City.

It was not because Mr. Bradford was so perfectly poised and polished and manicured or because he made such apt remarks or wore such beautifully tailored clothes or even because his hair lay so gloriously sleek. No, it was his lordly assurance in the presence of the waiters that James envied and Jane desired to have James emulate.

If the waiters had happened by any chance to have been of African descent then Mr. Bradford might have envied the brilliant ease with which Mr. Stinson handled them, but at this particular hotel, the waiters, unfortunately, were as white as their hearts were black and they spoke a strange and unknown lingo that Mr. Bradford understood and James didn't.

Both the head waiter and his minions took one look at James, labeled him, docketed him, despised and neglected him thereafter. James' tips were quite as lavish as those of Mr. Bradford, but he got only the most obscure ill-placed tables, the most transitory service.

This naturally enough irritated Jane, the loveliest and one of the best-dressed young women in the hotel. She kept urging her husband to assert himself and copy Mr. Bradford's masterful ways. James, alas, could do no better than to bribe the head waiter by a gift of ten dollars into promising better tables in the future—a promise sometimes fulfilled and sometimes not. Jane's remarks when they were not made James single all over with shame.

"You like masterfulness in a man?" he asked once, crumbling his bread in nervous fingers.

"Yes, of course, to a certain degree. Every woman does," said Jane impatiently.

"Then I don't altogether see, if you admire that sort, how you ever happened to marry me," answered James miserably. "I'm not masterful. I never was. I never will be. Didn't you know that until now?"

"You can be if you'll just assert yourself a little and don't let every one walk over you who wants to," said Jane a little unkindly. "It's only a question of making up your mind to be."

"I think there is more to it than that."

Someone came up to their table then to speak to Jane, and the subject was dropped.

James returned from his honeymoon a thoroughly happy but slightly puzzled young man with a determination to assert himself more frequently in the future and to take up on the first possible occasion the study of the art of masterfulness—and to cultivate on the side a darkly sinister gleam in his eye.

A FEW days after the return of Mr. and Mrs. James Brewster Stinson III from their honeymoon and while they were still happily engaged in what is called in New Concord, "settling down," Judge Holcomb dropped in to see Miss Julia Pratt.

The Judge had spent the previous evening with the Roger Bennetts and while there had overheard Loretta Bennett and some of her young crowd laughing over the account of the Stinsons' wedding in the Daily Globe. It had been written in the society reporter's best and most flowery style, but what excited the derision of the young people was the line which spoke of the bridegroom leading the bride to the altar.

They had insisted that it should have been reversed to read, "When the bride led the bridegroom."

"And they were right," commented the Judge. "Jane certainly did all the chasing, but she landed James as neat as you please. And now the poor..."

"Do you think it's nice to talk about a sweet pretty girl like Jane Northrup name as if she was some sort of a shrew?" interrupted Miss Julia indignantly.

"I haven't said a word against Jane except to admire the clever way she went after James and caught him. There's nothing new about that. Women have been dragging men to the altar and marrying them in spite of their screams ever since the days of the cave men."

"It's a pity all you men can't be locked up in glass cases," sniffed Miss Julia.

"Now, Miss Julia," said the Judge pleasantly, "you know more in a minute than all the women in this town in a million years and you needn't try to pretend to me that James ever so much as looked in Jane's direction until she made up her mind she wanted him to. It's Thackeray, isn't it, who says that any woman, unless she has an actual bump on her back, can marry any man she picks out, easy as easy."

"Why, I believe you put Jane up to marrying James in the first place though I don't expect you'll ever admit it."

"I wouldn't say I did and I wouldn't say I didn't," snapped Miss Julia, rocking vigorously back and forth. "But I do say that young folks don't know their own minds to speak of, and it is a blessed good thing for a flibbertigibbet like James to marry a sensible practical girl like Jane."

"I suppose Jane didn't know her own mind."

"Well, for pity's sake, what do you want for your precious James? It's my opinion that he could have looked a lot farther and fared a lot worse. It wasn't so very long ago I heard you saying that Jane Northrup was the best-looking girl in this county and a catch for any man. Now what have you got against her? I believe you're jealous."

"SHE looks too much like her mother," said the old man sedately, "and I don't like the set of that woman's jaw. Jane's fairly plump now and pink and white and her eyes are so bright and sparkling that, like an old fool, it never occurred to me to look at her jaw. But only yesterday I saw her walking up the street with James and it came to me all of a sudden that she was her mother over again, jaw and all."

"Mrs. Northrup is an awful hard worker and then that does the work generally gets the running of things. I guess you men let old Bill Clancy run the Bachelors' Club year in and year out and never say boo your selves. And you mark my words, if James hadn't married Jane he would have married that flighty little Leslie Harris. I suppose you would have liked that better?"

"I don't know. Leslie's sweet as a peach and I wouldn't mind marrying her myself, but I don't like the breed. I reckon that I'm as hard to suit as a tussled rooster with one chicken. But, Miss Julia, if you could have heard James speak to the Republican convention in Topeka last month your eyes would have popped out of your head. They cheered him for a quarter of an hour when he got through—and him just twenty-four. They called him silver tongued but he's more than that."

"You think he's made of pure gold, don't you?" flared Miss Julia good-naturedly.

"Well, I don't know. He's made of something pretty fine. But he's temperamental as a young colt and hasn't been hitched. Do you know that that by remembers every man he meets and his name and where he met him? Presidents have gone into the White House for less. What he lacks is conceit—just natural everyday conceit such as every young pup of his age is bursting with. Miss Julia, are you sure Jane knows how to handle him right?"

Miss Julia was very sure and gradually convinced the Judge. Later the two old gossip talked of Leslie Harris.

"Seems to me I don't see Sam Fletcher cluttering up her side porch as much as he did," said the Judge.

"No, I don't believe he does, come to think of it. But Bud Howard is there a lot and I like him much better than I do that uppity Sam Fletcher. Leslie never lacks beaux. I do believe that if there were eighty girls in this town and one man that Leslie would have him."

"You don't suppose she cared much about James, do you?"

"No," said Miss Julia reluctantly. "Some way she always felt a vague, uncomfortable sense of guilt when she thought of Leslie. She seems just as cheerful and happy as ever, and I've heard her say a hundred times if I've heard her say it once that James and Jane were made for each other."

What Miss Julia did not admit was that it had occurred to her frequently of late that she did not hear Leslie's contagious rippling laugh as often as she had in the past.

WEST PARK.
 West Park, April 2.—Amateur night at Wilkety's was held on March 31, at 7:30 p. m. Every one was glad to welcome the return of the Rev. Walter Morley, Jr., who was away for a few weeks. The Rev. Mr. Morley spoke a few words and then turned the program over to Walter Russell, announcer for the Wilkety studio. The theme song was "Brother Beams," followed by "You're a Heavenly Thing," "Dance and Frankie and Johnnie," sung by Lester Brown and George Berg played the songs. D. O'Neil and W. Janora did a tap dance with various other acts. J. Ardger sang "On a Sunny Night See Two Lovers." The closing song by Russell and Berg was "We See By the Moon."

The second evening club was held in the parish house on April 1, 7:30 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Plank discussed "Dinner Eggs," and gave the recipes for "dinner eggs."

ple with graham cracker crust and macarons. Besides giving many helpful hints in cooking and baking. On April 8, Miss Plank will discuss "Left-overs and How to Make Use of Them." Before the evening class is over everyone has a chance to sample Miss Plank's cooking and baking. The surrounding community are cordially invited to attend these classes which will be held for four more Monday evenings at Ascension Church parish house at 7:30 o'clock. Port Ellen, Ulster Park, Egan and West Park were represented with an attendance of thirty.

The Woman's Club of Southern Ulster county will hold its regular monthly meeting on April 3, at 8 p. m., in Ascension Church parish house. The Rev. C. G. Dwyer will be the speaker and his subject will be "Interesting Experiences with Great Folk and Great Happenings." Women and girls of the surrounding community are cordially invited to attend.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Action of the Arizona state legislature in providing for an "ambassador" to Washington promises to become what is known in diplomatic parlance as a "piffle" when he arrives to present his credentials.

To whom will he present his credentials? With whom will he discuss problems concerning the sovereign state of Arizona in the capital?

These charged with looking after that sort of thing here frankly admit they're stumped.

But not the Arizona delegation. The state's three representatives in congress—Senator Ashurst and Hayden and Mr. (Sabine) Greenwood, member of the house, are prepared to accord him full diplomatic recognition upon his arrival.

Ambassador To Ohio? ONE authority here has raised the question if Arizona's recognition of Washington evidenced by that state sending an ambassador to the banks of the Potomac, implies recognition by Washington of the sovereign state of Arizona.

The case of the state of Ohio is pointed to as an example. In the federal administrator of FERA sent out from Washington to handle Uncle Sam's largesse an ambassador or minister plenipotentiary?

With all their levity, however, the Arizona delegation in congress regard the move of their state legislature with more concern than they admit openly.

Wanted: Patronage—Money SENATOR ASHURST, for example, has compiled statistics showing that out of every dollar the taxpayers of Arizona have paid into the federal treasury last year they received $26 in return. He has distributed 100,000 circulars in the state setting forth this information in detail.

The three Arizona members of congress are frank to admit the possibility of the state's ambassador here will be to obtain more money and patronage for the state. And, they say, there are from 20 to 30 "ambassadors" or "lobbyists" from Arizona in Washington trying to influence legislation in one way or another.

"Another," says Ashurst, "even if he bears the credentials issued by the governor himself won't make much difference."

But he'll be received with the dignity befitting his rank, nevertheless. He'll even have a seat in the senate gallery reserved for diplomats exclusively, if he wants it.

Down the Vista of the Years

by H. L. Van Deusen

No. 7.—That $10,000 Survey (The yarn to be unfolded is purely fiction and should be read as such.)

A town is known by the people who inhabit it. If they are conservative, so also is the town. No place is bigger than the people who make it their home. Years ago Kingston had no Rotary or Kiwanis Clubs. Neither had it a board of trade that would later acquire the more dignified title of Chamber of Commerce, but that was before William Uplift, one of the town's leading merchants found the time off for the first time, to attend a so-called Pep meeting held in Atlantic City and attended by business men from all sections of the country.

On his return home Uplift got together Henry Woodman, the town's leading mortician; Johnny Shaver, the town's foremost barber; Sam Acra, realtor; Dr. Sam Eymann, optician; Charley Hall, grocer; Harry Barker, insurance broker, and a few other kindred souls.

"Boys," said Bill, "what do we lack in Kingston?" As no one answered, he continued, "Pep, that's what we need here. We are too conservative. We haven't got the punch. What we need is some of that go-get-it spirit. Kingston needs to be waked up."

"Oh, I don't know," drawled Mr. Eymann. "We haven't any kick coming. I guess all of us here are making a little money. Business is not so bad that it might not be worse."

"That's just the point," said Bill. "We are making a little money, but we should be making more. What we need is organization."

"What kind of organization," asked Acra.

"A Chamber of Commerce," replied Bill promptly.

At first the men could not get Bill's viewpoint at all, but Bill was always a persuasive talker, and the upshot was to stage a big get-together dinner of the business and professional men of the city and import some prominent speaker to pep up the boys. As it was Bill's idea he was delegated to make all arrangements and also to secure the speaker.

Bill's choice was a man known as the Human Dynamo. The dinner was held at the Mansion House. Following the serving of the dinner Bill, acting as toastmaster, introduced the Human Dynamo. He was the first inspirational speaker the city had heard. First off he told what a fine town they had and what a pleasure it was to meet with the representative men of the city.

After tickling their vanity by telling them what fine fellows they were and what a good town Kingston was, and how the representative group before him were the backbone of the nation, he plunged into his talk, which was "How to Make Your Town Grow."

According to his theory the way to make Kingston grow was to organize. In other words every town needed an active Chamber of Commerce with an efficient secretary in charge. At the close of his address the Human Dynamo, at the request of Bill, asked those present who believed in organization to raise their hands. Naturally every one did so. It's a queer thing that hard instinct is men. They follow a leader just like sheep.

Bill believed in striking while the iron was hot and immediately circulated a subscription list to raise funds to get the organization started. A sufficient amount being pledged Bill called for another meeting to be held the following night when a temporary organization could be effected and when it was decided to employ an expert from a city planning bureau that Bill had heard of to come to Kingston and have charge not only of the formation of the Chamber of Commerce but to stage a membership drive. The drive went over with a bang.

At one of the first meetings of the newly organized Chamber of Commerce the question came up as to who should be engaged as secretary. Some of the directors believed that a local man should be given the job, but Bill promptly overruled that proposition and it was decided to get in touch with the city planning bureau and see if they could recommend a man. They could and did and that is how Henry Forward, the "Pep" evidently standing for "Pep," arrived in town.

Bill Uplift headed the delegation that met the new secretary at the West Shore station, and Bill assured them that they would meet a most unusual man. So it was with expectations pitched high that the delegation met and welcomed Mr. Forward. As he stepped from the train the delegation surged forward. There was no mistaking him for some one else. He was what modern business experts call a high-powered executive and he looked the part. He stood fully six feet tall and was built in proportion. Following introductions the waiting cars conveyed the party to the city hall where Mr. Forward was shown his new headquarters. He professed himself as highly pleased and said that from his first impressions of Kingston that it was a most desirable city.

The week that followed Secretary Forward's advent proved a hectic one for old King. Kingston for the first time in outlining plans for the betterment of the town. At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce that had been called he explained his position.

"What we need gentlemen first of all is a survey of our resources so that we will be in a position to know what we have to offer prospective industrial concerns. Have you such a survey?"

The week that followed Secretary Forward's advent proved a hectic one for old King. Kingston for the first time in outlining plans for the betterment of the town. At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce that had been called he explained his position.

"What we need gentlemen first of all is a survey of our resources so that we will be in a position to know what we have to offer prospective industrial concerns. Have you such a survey?"

Several of the directors shook their heads in the negative, while Bill, speaking for them all, said that he did not believe that a survey had ever been made.

"Tek, tek," said Mr. Forward through his tightly closed teeth while a shadow seemed to fall over his usually sunny features. Then he smiled. "Well, that's that, gentlemen. The most important thing on the program is to have such a survey made. Then we will be in a position to know just what kind of industries are best suited for the development of the town. You get certain kinds of industries here and what happens?" He paused and glanced around, but none answered. He continued: "You just stagnate the town, gentlemen. What we are here for, as I gather it, is to increase the property not only of the members of this organization but the entire town. Am I right?"

He was assured that he was absolutely correct.

"It sounds reasonable," said Bill Uplift, as he glanced around the table at the other directors. "How do you best proceed with this survey, Mr. Forward?" he asked, turning to the secretary.

The genial secretary paused for a minute to collect his thoughts. Then he said: "I would suggest, gentlemen, securing the services of a competent concern to make a thorough study and survey of the town, as the survey to be of any real value, in my opinion, should be made by experts."

"Who have you in mind?" asked Bill.

"The city planning bureau makes a specialty of that," replied Mr. Forward.

Several days later several of the leading men of the town were gathered around a table in the Mansion House talking of this and that when the conversation gradually drifted to a discussion of the activities of the recently organized Chamber of Commerce and its secretary.

"Speaking candidly," said Woodman, "I can't see where this Forward is doing so much to promote the activities of the town."

"Well, he is kicking up a lot of dust," said Shaver, with a smile. "Yes, and we are going to have an industrial survey made," observed Dr. Eymann, smilingly.

"Who is going to do it?" asked Shaver.

"The city planning bureau," explained Eymann.

"That's the same organization that recommended the secretary for the job here, isn't it?" asked Shaver. "Forward is kicking up a lot of dust," said Shaver, with a smile. "Yes, and we are going to have an industrial survey made," observed Dr. Eymann, smilingly.

"Who is going to do it?" asked Shaver.

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, April 2.—The Ladies' Aid of M. E. Church wish to thank all who helped to make the conference supper on Thursday night a success. Although the weather was decidedly stormy several guests came from Kingston. The supper was followed by a very interesting program consisting of a piano solo, "For Elise," by Miss Doris Pine; piano solo, "Lady Pompadour," by Miss Zella Sahler; quartet, "Kentucky Babe," by Charles Gherwin, Louis Larsen, Elmer Krom and Milton Gherwin of Atwood; a piano solo, "Tartaria," by Miss Dorothy Ransom; violin solo by Miss Paula A. Smith of Kingston, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. A. H. Smith; Ross Osterhoudt, in his able manner, gave three readings, "The House by the Side of the Road," "School Days" and "A Fishing Story"; a piano solo by Miss Frances Barnhardt, "On the Meadow." The closing number was "Juanita" by the Atwood quartet. Both the dining room and auditorium were decorated with beautiful pink carnations donated by Mr. Burgevin of Kingston.

The pupils in school district No. 5, who had perfect attendance during the month of March and thereby earned a half-holiday on Friday, March 29, were Edward Beatty, Virgil Wagar, Frances Barnhardt, Doris Pine, Edna Sutherland, Betty Maaten and Zella Sahler in the senior department; William Turner, David Strivings, Margaret Osterhoudt, Ida Mae Sutherland, Katherine Elmendorf, Florence Elmendorf, Betty Brown, Betty Lounsbury, Anna Traphagen and Helen Van Demark in the junior room.

The coming of spring has brought about the usual amount of moving in Stone Ridge. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reed and family moved from Wallkill into the tenant house of Robert Service, recently vacated by Mrs. Charles Turner, who has taken rooms of Jacob Beatty. Charles Barley and family moved into the house of Mr. Petraglia. Joseph Traphagen moved into the tenant house of Mrs. Ina Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Stanford are taking rooms with Roy Munson.

Mrs. Carrie Davis received a hearty welcome by her many friends at the M. E. supper on Thursday evening. Mrs. Davis spent the winter at Miami, Florida, in company with Mr. and Mrs. L. Terhune.

Miss Eleanor Bond of New York city is a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Greene Lockwood.

Miss Frances Pine entertained the Epworth League at her home on Friday evening. After the business meeting delicious refreshments were served and an evening of games and recreation was enjoyed by all present. Miss Gertrude DePuy of High Falls was a guest of the league and very sweetly sang "Forgotten" and "Clouds." Others present were John Basten, Miss Carol Nissen, Miss Mary Bloom, Virgil Sheeler, Miss Ruth Freer, George Von Bergen, Croswell Sheeler, Miss Minna Von Bergen, Reigh Sahler, the Rev. Roscoe Strivings, and Arnold Jacobson.

Mrs. Mae Krom and Mrs. Beattie Stauderman of Kingston called at the home of Mrs. DeForest Bishop on Friday evening.

George Bloom has treated his barn to a new roof.

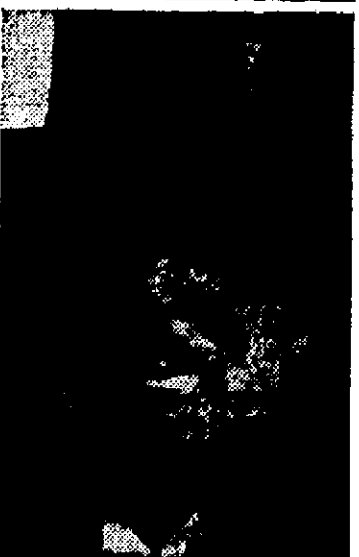

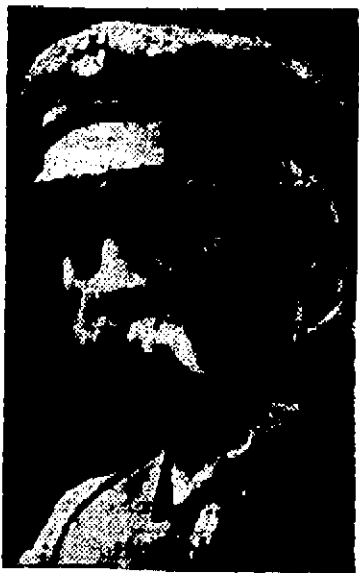

Mrs. George LaWare has returned home after visiting friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Morehouse of New Jersey spent the week-end at their home in this place.

Clarence Green and father of Nyack and Green Lockwood are on a trip to Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Yeaple, who has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Silkworth, recently had a stroke and does not improve as fast as her friends would like.

Mrs. Horace Myers of Bannockville is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Earl Osterhoudt.

Mrs. Roscoe Strivings attended a meeting of a group of ministers' wives at the home of the Rev. Eugene Crabb of Napanoch on Friday afternoon. Those present were Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. Raye, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Crabb and Mrs. Strivings. Each guest was to read the poem they liked best. Mrs. Crabb read "Prayer," Mrs. Strivings read "The House Inside," by Grafflin, and Mrs. Lyons recited "Temperance," a poem written by her grandfather in England. A game, "The Leader," was played and refreshments were served. A delightful time was had by all present.

Miss Pauline Palen, who teaches at Bannockville, N. J., is spending her Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Palen.

The Thursday evening church night will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sahler.

The Rev. Roscoe Strivings attended the evening service on Sunday at the Accord M. E. Church. The Reformed and Methodist Churches of Accord united and the Rev. Ben Scholten, pastor of the Reformed Church, gave a very inspiring message on the topic, "The Rejected Stone Which Became Most Valuable."

Mrs. Jane Myers is employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Clark.

Berton Delamater is spending some time with friends in Saugerties.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Roosa regret to hear that they are moving to Hurley with Mrs. Roosa's sister. Mr. Davenport has purchased Mr. Roosa's farm.

PROGRESS MEANS CHANGE!

The standards of yesterday are gone and in their place must come the new...to keep in step with progress. Never before have as many sensational improvements been offered as will be found in the 1935 Whitney Baby Carriage line. Actually these carriages are designed and built like fine motor cars. Illustrated below are but a few of the 1935 WHITNEY creations. A complete line is on display at our showrooms.

Looking Over Kingston's New Charter Proposals

Sec. 105. CORPORATION COUNSEL. The Corporation Counsel shall be head of the Department of Law.

Sec. 106. POWERS AND DUTIES. The Corporation Counsel shall be the legal adviser of the Mayor, Common Council, city officers and all city boards and departments. He shall prosecute and defend all actions and proceedings brought by or against said city or any of its boards or departments, except as the Common Council may otherwise direct, and shall render such other professional services connected with the affairs of said city as are required of him by the Common Council, or by the provisions of this Charter. In actions or proceedings, brought or defended by him in any court, wherein costs are adjudged in favor of the city or of any board or department thereof, he shall be entitled to have and receive the same when collected. Upon taking office the Corporation Counsel shall be deemed substituted, as Attorney of Record in all actions or proceedings in which the city or any of its boards or departments is a party and it shall not be necessary to enter any order to that effect.

Sec. 107. DOCKET AND ACCOUNTING FOR CITY PROPERTY. The Corporation Counsel shall keep a docket in which he shall enter at length all actions and proceedings in which he shall appear for the city, and in which docket shall be shown at all times the condition of all such actions or legal proceedings, and he shall account to, and turn over to, his successor all city property in his custody or which came into his custody during his period of service to the city.

Sec. 108. CERTIFICATION AND APPROVAL OF CONTRACTS AND CONVEYANCES. No written contract providing for the payment of five hundred dollars or more, entered into by the city or any of its officers, boards or departments, shall become effective or be acted under until there shall be endorsed thereon by the Corporation Counsel a certificate to the effect that the city officer, board or department which has executed the same on behalf of the city, had authority and power to make such contract, and that such contract is in proper form and properly executed; he shall approve all deeds, conveyances, leases and abstracts of title affecting property acquired, conveyed to or leased by the city.

Sec. 109. COMPROMISE OF CLAIMS. The Corporation Counsel shall, whenever he considers that the interests of the city will be subserved thereby, enter into an agreement in writing, subject to the approval of the Board of Estimate, to compromise and settle any claims against the city; and the amount shall constitute a valid obligation against the city; and the amount therein provided to be paid shall, with interest thereon from its date, be included in the next city tax budget, and be collected and paid the same in all respects as a judgment against the city.

Sec. 110. EMPLOYMENT OF COUNSEL. The Corporation Counsel, with the written consent of the Mayor, may employ counsel and experts at such compensation as may be agreed upon by the Board of Estimate, to assist him in the argument and conduct of important cases or proceedings in which the city is interested or a party.

Sec. 111. POLICE TO AID CORPORATION COUNSEL. It shall be the duty of every member of the police force of the city, observing or having any knowledge of an accident from which a cause of action might arise against the city, to report forthwith the fact of such accident to the Chief of Police who shall thereupon report the same to the Corporation Counsel, and upon the request of the Corporation Counsel, the Chief of Police shall detail a member of the force to aid the Corporation Counsel in the investigation of any such accident.

BUILDING INSPECTOR

Section 116. Building Inspector.

117. Powers and duties with relation to unsafe buildings and abandoned excavations.

118. Issuing building permits: prescribing materials and regulating the construction and repair of buildings.

Sec. 116. BUILDING INSPECTOR. The Building Inspector shall be head of the Department of Buildings.

Sec. 117. POWERS AND DUTIES WITH RELATION TO UNSAFE BUILDINGS AND ABANDONED EXCAVATIONS. The Building Inspector shall have full power and authority to require the owner of any building in the city which is unoccupied and in an untenable condition, or any wall or building or part thereof which may be in a ruinous or unsafe condition, to take down and remove the same and to fill in any abandoned excavation. Where the owner of such wall or building shall fail or neglect to take down and remove the same, or fill in any abandoned excavation, within five days after written notice so to do has been served upon him either personally or by delivering the same at his residence, or if he be a non-resident by mailing the same to him at his last known place of residence, or if the name of the owner or his last known place of residence cannot be ascertained after due diligence, by posting the same in a conspicuous place upon the premises, the Building Inspector shall have such wall or building taken down and removed, and such abandoned excavation filled in, and the expense of said taking down, removal or filling in when certified by the Building Inspector to the Common Council shall be paid by the city and such amount shall thereupon be and become a lien upon the lot or premises where such wall, building or abandoned excavation existed and shall be levied, collected, enforced and collected in the same manner, by the same proceedings and under the same penalties as an assessment for public improvement.

Sec. 118. ISSUANCE OF BUILDING PERMITS: PRESCRIBING MATERIALS AND REGULATING THE CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR OF BUILDINGS. The Building Inspector shall issue all building permits for the alteration of or the construction of buildings within the limits of the city. He shall regulate the manner of erecting, altering or repairing buildings, and shall prescribe the materials of which such buildings may be constructed and of such alterations or repairs, and to impose penalties upon the architect and builder who shall erect or place, alter or repair any building within the said city in violation of such ordinances. To prevent or regulate the construction of any chimney, fire-place, heater, stove, stovepipe, oven, repository of ashes, boiler, furnace or other apparatus whatever, which may be considered dangerous with regard to fire, and to cause the owner or occupant of any place upon which shall be found anything dangerous with regard to fire to immediately remove the same and put the same in a safe condition. For the purpose aforesaid or any or either thereof, the Building Inspector may enter into, or approve and authorize the entry into or upon any building or premises in said city. The Building Inspector shall have power to compel the owner or occupant of any building in the city, when he shall deem it necessary, to construct, erect and maintain suitable means of safe egress therefrom in case of fire, such as he shall prescribe by written notice served upon such owner or occupant, or upon their duly authorized agent.

Aldermen Take No Action on Proposed Barbers' Ordinance

Council Adopts Laws and Rules Committee Report Recommending That No Action Be Taken on Proposed Ordinance at This Time—Committee Recently Held Public Hearing and Heard Conflicting Statements.

The Common Council on Tuesday evening unanimously adopted the report of its laws and rules committee recommending that no action be taken at this time on the proposed ordinance to license and regulate barber shops in the city.

Last month a number of the local barbers filed with the council a proposed ordinance signed by over fifty of the barbers asking that the ordinance be adopted. The ordinance was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Shortly afterward another petition was circulated among the barbers in opposition to the adoption of the ordinance. This was signed by over 60 local barbers. Many of the local barbers it was found had signed both petitions.

Recently the laws and rules committee held a public hearing on the ordinance which was largely attended. Those favoring the adoption of the ordinance had retained Attorney Andrew J. Cook to speak for them, while the barbers opposed to the ordinance had retained Attorney Chris J. Flanagan to represent them.

Mr. Flanagan attacked the ordinance on a number of grounds, and Mr. Cook agreed that some of the objections made by Mr. Flanagan were sound and that the ordinance should be amended to eliminate objectionable features. At the close of the hearing Alderman Leirey announced that the committee would submit its report later to the Common Council.

Last night the committee submitted the following report which was unanimously adopted by the council: "At the meeting of the Common Council held on March 6th, 1935, and in accordance with a report of the Laws and Rules Committee, the matter of a proposed ordinance relating to the licensing and regulation of barber shops and barbers in the city of Kingston was again referred to the Laws and Rules Committee.

This committee held a public hearing in relation to the matter, after due public notice, which was attended by many members of the barbers' profession, and by a representative of the Ulster County Hairdressers Association.

Both those in favor of the ordinance and those opposed expressed conflicting opinions as to the merits of the proposed ordinance, and it is the recommendation of this committee that any action in the matter be taken at a later date.

Other matters taken up at the council session will be found elsewhere.

The public as well as the men who make the films are to be congratulated on the rise of the standard of motion picture productions in the past few months. Public spirited citizens who assisted in bringing about this change are entitled to feel satisfaction about the accomplishment which is evident everywhere.

Okemah, Okla.—Another member of the Dean family has turned up a winner. Harry Dean, uncle of the famous baseball brothers, "Dizzy" and "Daffy" was elected councilman from the Third ward in the city election.

Oddity.

Philadelphia—The man on the telephone asked for odds, but the odds are all against him getting anything out of his bet.

Police Captain Daniel Harritty took the caller's bet, tricked him into disclosing the telephone number of the bookmaker, then raided the cigar store where that number was listed.

Pinch! Pinch!

Wildwood, N. J.—The police department was called out to make a big "pinch" at the home of Mayor Doris Bradway.

A 14-pound lobster, something of a pincher himself, got loose from the basket in which he was presented to the mayor after her inspection of the fishing fleet. The mayor's cook looked, red and screamed for help. The police made the pinch without getting pinched.

We would judge, after reading a number of recent legal opinions, that some of the court rooms in the country are not displaying blue eagles very prominently.

57 Couples Married In Shanghai Ceremony As Economy Example

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Shanghai, April 3.—The Chinese government today delivered a telling blow at the high cost of weddings when 57 couples marched to the altar together and were married in a simple ceremony, with General Wu Teh-Chen, mayor of Shanghai, officiating.

Aimed at setting an example of economy to the nation in accordance with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's "new life" movement, the ceremony was devoid of all the frills and extravagance characterizing the traditional Chinese wedding.

To the injured strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" played by a Chinese brass band, the marriage candidates paraded down the crimson-carpeted aisle while a crowd of 1,200 persons, largely relatives, looked on.

The couples ascended the platform in groups of four, bowed three times before the statue of Sun Yat-sen, "Father of His Country," bowed twice before each other and once to the mayor. They then received brilliantly decorated certificates which made them man and wife.

Took Two Minutes
The traditional wedding vows to heaven, earth and ancestors were dispensed with and each marriage was completed in two minutes. The government charged each couple the equivalent of seven American dollars for the ceremony, the price including the certificate and a gift to the bride.

This was in startling contrast to the customary Chinese wedding which costs hundreds or thousands of dollars and often throws the young couple into debt for life.

As an indication of the popularity of the low-priced weddings, 31 couples already have arranged to be wed in a second mass ceremony.

All those who were married today had been carefully examined by authorities before they were permitted to marry. These examinations included investigations of the applicants' physical, financial and moral capacities. All prospective grooms were required to have jobs.

Mostly School Teachers
Most of the couples married today were school teachers, minor city officials, shop keepers, small business men and the like. Their ages covered a wide range.

In China the minimum age for a girl to be married is 16 years, and that for a man is 18. Today there were boys and girls of the minimum age as well as elderly men and women beyond 50.

Shanghai's "mass marriage plan" from now on is scheduled to be held on the first Wednesday of each month. On those days Mayor Wu will receive all who have properly qualified themselves for marriage and who wish his services. The authorities say there is no limit to the number who may be married each time.

"All that is necessary is that each couple meet the requirements," stated the chief of the marriage registration bureau. "If we find the hall in the administration building is too small, we will move outdoors."

asked authorization to borrow an amount not to exceed $20,000 to guard against the contingency of delay in the receipt of home and relief funds from the state and consequent lack of available cash to meet relief requirements. The communication was referred to the finance, ways and means committee, which later reported favorably and the authorization was unanimously granted.

Loans Paid Promptly
The city treasurer sent in a communication reading: "This is to inform you that the amount of loans totaling $90,000, borrowed on notes variously from January 3 to January 28, 1935, in anticipation of taxes have this day—March 16—all been paid in full with interest amounting to $465.65."

1,507 Relief Cases
The financial report of the local ERB for February showed expenditures of $64,974.88, and that the appropriation for that month had been $65,000. During that month 1,507 relief cases had been taken care of.

Motions Introduced
The following motions and resolutions were introduced and referred to the proper city boards and departments:

By Alderman Epstein—That ERB remodel Weber Hose house on Mill street; that board of public works repair East Union, Ann, Chambers, Murray, Newkirk avenue and East Strand.

Alderman Zucca—That traffic committee take up with the chief of police the advisability of regulating parking on the east side of Clinton avenue at the intersection of Albany avenue to a point 40 feet from the corner.

Aldermen Connelly and Doheny—That roadway of Mary's avenue between Andrew street and top of hill at the Benedictine Hospital be rebuilt.

Alderman Connelly—That Levan street, between Adams and Brewster streets, be rebuilt and balance of street repaired; that holes in roadway on Pine Grove avenue be filled and street repaired where necessary.

Alderman Doheny—That Adams street be topdressed and rolled and the curb stone reset, this could be done as an ERB project; that Russell street be repaired; that McEntee street from Home to West Pierpont street be widened; this could be done as a relief project.

Alderman Leirey—That holes in following streets be filled. Gross, Hanratty, Newkirk avenue, Hasbrouck Place, Lawrence street, Livingston street, Second avenue, Third avenue, Larch street, Hooker street, Kingston, Ulster and Rock streets; that large rock on upper portion of Hooker street be removed; that after completion of sewer project on First avenue that following streets be put in serviceable condition by topdressing and widening upper portions to city line; First, Second and Third avenues, also Livingston and Stuyvesant street be topdressed; that sewer project on Second avenue from Moore street be extended to High street; that sewer project in Third avenue from High street to Third, be extended to Rondout street; that sewer be constructed on First avenue from Moore street to Larch street; that light be placed on pole No. 496, top of Second avenue.

Alderman Koller—That public works board regrade Park street at the intersection of Park street and Highland avenue, so as to make this corner safer for traffic.

Alderman Renn—That all streets in Tenth ward be swept and cleaned; that Prospect street be topdressed; that holes in Greenkill avenue be filled.

Alderman Cornwell—That the section of Pine street, between Henry and St. James street, be rebuilt and that the work be done as a relief project; that street light of incandescent type be placed at dead end of Schryver Court; that incandescent street light be placed at Klingberg and Pettit avenues; that Greenkill avenue between Fair and Wall streets, and Clinton avenue be topdressed; that Josephine avenue be topdressed; that Henry street, between Clinton avenue and Wall street, be topdressed; that section of Fair street, between Henry and Greenkill avenue, be included in list of streets to be swept by street sweepers; that holes in pavement on Wall street be filled.

Other matters taken up at the meeting will be found elsewhere.

U. S. Cruiser Struck by Torpedo in Practice

San Pedro, Calif., April 3 (AP).—Struck by a dud torpedo, the U. S. S. Northampton ploughed through sea maneuvers today as though nothing had happened.

The ten-thousand ton cruiser carried a sizable but unimportant dent in her steel plates as a memento of the accident which might have resulted disastrously had the torpedo carried its warhead load of TNT.

The 45 knot torpedo crashed into the Northampton last week during target practice on the navy's drill grounds off San Clemente Island. It was fired from a distance of about 500 yards.

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, could not be reached to give official details of the accident.

Accidents of this kind, navy men pointed out, are not unknown in torpedo practice.

Admiral William M. Stanley, chief of naval operations, announced from his headquarters in Washington that a request had been received to place the Northampton in drydock at Mare Island to repair bent plates.

Reports reaching here said the Northampton was continuing its part in secret practice maneuvers with the fleet and would return here tomorrow before heading into drydock. One of its fuel tanks was believed damaged by the missile.

HIGHLAND

Highland, April 3.—Miss Dorothy Curtis of the state library department at Albany will be the speaker at the P. T. A. meeting on Monday evening. She will talk on children's reading and books. A large attendance is asked.

Prizes of $5 and $2.50 are to be offered by the Lions Club for the best posters advertising clean-up week and the judges are McAlpin Brown, Herbert Campbell and Miss Helen Sykes of the high school art department. Students in the local school, also of the Raymond Rindon School, are eligible to enter the contest. McAlpin Brown contributes the first prize and the club the second. The prizes were held Monday evening at the Hilliard and Charles Schmidt became a new member. There were 19 present. William Maynard is chairman for the clean-up campaign and the date will be set later. Dr. Victor Salvatore gave an interesting talk on his recent trip to Miami, Fla.

Donald DuBois, Donald Merritt and Victor Salvatore returned to their school at Mt. Hermon Wednesday. Dr. Salvatore drove over with the young men.

An executive meeting of Court Milan was held at the home of the grand regent, Mrs. John Gaffney, Tuesday evening.

The Masonic singers, Dr. V. P. Salvatore, Lorin E. Osterhout, Harold Sutton, the Rev. D. S. Haynes and Harry B. Cotant sang Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock from the broadcasting station at Middletown.

Jerome Bennett with his mother and sister moved Monday from a house in Schuble Place to the A. W. Lent house on the Milton road.

Apples are still moving out of storage and finding sale from the Highland storage at the Bridge Circle. Macs are practically out of market but other varieties are being called for.

Fifteen members of the Service Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church were guests of the Evening Reading Circle Monday at the home of Mrs. C. W. Rathgeb. The guests conducted the devotionals by dramatizing the Bible story of Blind Bartimeus. A hymn was sung and a solo, "My Task," by Mrs. Gladys Mears. The Circle sang an original song in honor of the guests. Mrs. A. W. Lent, read the chapter, "The Riddle of the Future," which had to do with the young American born oriental. The hospitality committee served salad, sandwiches, cake and coffee. The Service Club will entertain the Reading Circle May 27 in Kingston.

A. Jerome Pratt has been ill at his home the last two weeks with an attack of sinus trouble.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Herman Sandy and Miss Luella Ose at the Court Milan card party last week with Mrs. Peter Maroldt.

The Senior Debating Team met Liberty debaters Tuesday afternoon in the local school, and Thursday the local team went to Monticello to debate with the team there.

Irving Rathgeb was in New York a couple of days this week.

A French play was given in assembly at the high school on Friday, directed by their instructor, Miss Ann Taylor.

The garden executive from Cornell met Wednesday afternoon with the 4-H Club girls in Mrs. Gladys Mears' grade high school. This is the only single club talk is with during her few days' stay in this locality. In other places they met collectively.

The eighth grade Stamp Club held an exhibit of Canadian stamps Monday afternoon. The prizes were Canadian stamps and were won by Junior Donovan, Mike Shopinsky and John Salvatore. Mrs. Gladys Mears is teacher of the grade.

The evening of mystery plays in the Presbyterian Church hall on Friday was well attended and the committee with Mrs. N. D. Williams, chairman, hopes to clear $25. The program was: Ladies' Aid, piano trio, Mrs. Julius Blakely, Miss Edna Curry, Mrs. N. D. Williams; the Pioneer Club, playlet, "Propaganda," with Nancy Dean, Barbara Boyce, Ruth Haynes, Barbara Lent, Richard Haynes and Robert Coutant taking part; Evening Reading Circle, reading, "An Old Sweetheart," Mine, in costume, Oliver, Tillson; the session, quartet, Messrs. Use of the President's Name Urged in Drive By Republican Chiefs

Washington, April 3 (AP).—A belief that Republicans should not hesitate to use President Roosevelt's name in the future attacks upon the New Deal is spreading among party members in the capital.

Some of them hope to see a direct drive against the President get underway at a meeting of middle-western Republicans in Kansas City next month.

Leaders familiar with plans for that gathering have predicted it will take particular exception to the administration's crop control program, the federal deficit, the number of persons on relief or otherwise dependent upon the government, what critics call the "regimentation" of industry, and the work relief bill now in congress.

The demand that the party attack the President by name, instead of indirectly in criticism of his policies and assistants, was explained in this way by one prominent Republican:

"We tried indirectness in the last campaign and got nowhere. If the Republicans are afraid to call the President by name in assailing New Deal tactics, the party might as well fold up now and not have a 1936 campaign."

Republicans of six New England states, who were called to meet at Boston on April 30 after the Kansas City meeting had been arranged, are expected to hear similar expressions of opinion. State chairmen, committeemen and committeewomen from Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut were invited to the Boston conference, which will be addressed by Representative Christianson of Minnesota.

The Kansas City rally was called, party stalwarts said, to confer on general plans for the 1936 campaign, outline principles which could be incorporated in the new platform, initiate a reorganization of the party in the middle-west, arrange for establishment of mid-western headquarters and organize a publicity bureau.

LOCAL KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING
An open meeting will be held Monday evening next at 8 o'clock by Kingston Council, No. 276, Knights of Columbus, at the K. of C. Home. Every Catholic man living in the city is extended a cordial invitation to be present. Grand Knight R. A. Donnarumma and Lecturer George

D. Logan are arranging a special program for the Knights and their guests. This meeting will be held as a part of the local council's participation in the Mobilization for Catholic Action, which has been extended to April 7 by the supreme headquarters at New Haven, Conn. The mobilization movement in Kingston has met with encouraging results and more than a score of applications for membership were read at the regular meeting Monday evening.

ing. William Byrne, chairman of the executive committee directing the drive, expressed his gratification of the results thus far.

MONTGOMERY WARD

April Shower

Beyond the jeweled window pane the world is passing by: Umbrellas bog along beneath a weeping April sky; A gurgle in the gutter pipe, a patter overhead; Old Phoebe, tired of smiling along, lies sleeping in his bed; And soon the green buds will bloom, when April's tears are dried; And on the scented air of Spring a butterfly will ride; Thank April for her laughter, and the music of her rain; To lull a weary child to sleep, to nature life again.

A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY. . . . Roll out of bed with a smile. . . . whip on your brightest tie. . . . whistle a tune as you swing along to work. . . . pass on a breezy "good morning" to all. . . . whether or not they share your enthusiasm. . . . dig into your work. . . . how the hours fly. . . . it's noon and time for lunch. . . . afternoon. . . . time to quit. . . . more pleasant hours ahead. . . . out for a spin. . . . a game of tennis. . . . a date with Elsie. . . . a stroll in the moonlight. . . . It's SPRING!

SPRING SHORTS. . . The only advantage of following the crowd is that you'll be the first one out. . . . A girl is afraid to become too shocked at a good story for fear she can't remember it. . . . Strip poker is a funny game—the more you lose the more you have to show for your hard work. . . . Paint is a great preservation which is probably the reason why women live longer than men. . . . You can tell when a girl has found the right man. She no longer cares what her friends think of her. . . . You can generally tell what people are by what they do. . . . If brevity is the soul of wit, these half-hearted bathing suits are the very spirit of good fun. . . . Wars will end when a neighbor's brats break your windows and you chuckle about it. . . . A specialist is a man who charges you $25 for advising you to consult somebody else. . . . Experience seems to make more people poor than it makes rich. . . . One way to keep from losing your memory and disappearing is to keep your bills paid. . . . Of course, we love the common people, if for no better reason than because there are so many of us. . . .

Man—It's sickening the way my wife keeps talking about her first husband.
Friend—That's nothing. Mine keeps talking about her next.

Americanism: Trying to rebuild prosperity by "stimulating business"; irritating business men till they balk in harness and quit trying.

Gamekeeper—Didn't you see that notice at the entrance to these woods?
Smile boy—Yes, but it was headed "Private," and I was too polite to read on.

Never dispute a rich tightwad who says he is a poor man. He's a good judge of quality.

Niece—They say there are more marriages of blondes than brunettes. Why is that?
Bachelor Uncle—H'm! Naturally the light-headed ones go first.

There is much we could learn from a study of the Indian. In place of spring housecleaning, he moves the wigwam.

Gob (writing a letter, to mate sitting on bunk)—Hey, Joe, take your shirt off. I want to see how you spell Matilda.

We have often wondered where the young folks married in Niagara Falls go on their honeymoon.

Elsie—How did you like my costume for the orange show? I was supposed to be disguised as a grapefruit.

Harry—You were certainly an eye-fall!

Only when a rich man walks into a free clinic does he remove his jewelry and try to look urban.

You can recognize the residents of Easy Street. They play bridge in the morning.

Real Estate Will Advance

Mr. Schultz of Schultz & Bogart Real Estate Brokers speaking of the real estate situation believes that in a very short time the real estate buyer will have to pay a lot more money for real estate than the present day market—Real Estate in the metropolitan area is showing considerable increase and Kingston is sure to feel the effects of increased buying in the near future—a bright ray of sunshine in the real estate horizon—and prices are sure to go upward.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINCY JAMES.

Germany's "national day of mourning" in which tribute was paid to that country's war dead, was made the occasion for the issuance of two special stamps.

Identified as "heroes' memorial day stamps," they were in denominations of 6 and 12 pfennigs. Within a frame of oak leaves was placed the plastic profile of a German soldier wearing a steel helmet.

Across the top was the inscription "Heldengedanktag 1935," which is translated into "Heroes' Memorial Day 1935." Collectors pointed out that it was the first time that German war victims had been honored by a special stamp issue.

President Honored.

Eighty-five years of life on mother earth already has made the appointment of Dr. Thomas Garique Masaryk, president of the republic of Czechoslovakia. So, in honor of his birth anniversary a special issue of adhesives is being brought forward by that country.

In two types, the four stamps bear portraits of Dr. Masaryk, together with a facsimile of his signature. On the 50 heller green and the 1 korona red, the aged president is shown in profile, wearing military headgear. The other two values, 2 korona-blue and 3 korona-green, have him in almost full face with a soft felt hat.

The stamps, classified as commemorative, are engraved on heavy cream paper, which is tinted slightly in the basic color of the engraving.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—When Hollywood becomes as thoroughly "color-conscious" as the color camera proponents predict, scenes like this no longer will be fed to the prosaic black-and-white film.

A great ceremonial hall in the Kingdom of Kor covers the entire sound stage. Beyond an expanse of dark green polished floor—for this is a "long shot"—is the "Jeweled throne" of She, heroine of H. Rider Haggard's fantastic novel. The walls are high, severe, gray, and the tall throne, with its background of patterned mirrors, is Hittite against them.

Riot Of Brilliance

Before the throne, on a circular dais, are the fire priests, clad in somber robes of gray or black; some of them wear golden masks. She (Helen Gabagan) sits on the throne, a costume of yellow and orange-gold flowing in folds about her. Courtiers, guards, priests, soldiers are scattered about the steps leading up to the throne. Yellow and orange-gold must be the royal colors, for the guards, stationed sentinel-like at intervals, wear helmets in the shape of eagle-heads, orange-gold and yellow.

The whole effect is one of striking spectacle and color. The camera will catch the spectacle, but the colors will be lost.

Cooper Prefers Color

Watching the proceedings is Meriam C. Cooper, the producer. He says he thinks "She" will be a good picture in black-and-white, but it would be better in color. He wanted to do this in the new color process, but R. K. O., for whom he is making the film, thought otherwise. After "She" and "The Last Days of Pompeii" for R. K. O., Cooper enters upon his duties as executive vice-president of John Hay Whitney's Pioneer company. He then will make no more pictures in black-and-white.

"She" is a combination of adventure, romance and weird fantasy. Helen Gabagan's role is that of a princess endowed with eternal youth. In search of her secret goes the young scientist (Randolph Scott).

Fantasy is material at which most producers shy, and Cooper concedes that it is "dangerous" from the box-office standpoint at best, but he is applying to "She" his pet formula: "Make it so real that audiences will believe in it."

An eye specialist lecturing in Boston is quoted as saying that flirting is good for the eyes. Don't know about that. We know of some fellows who have got black ones by practicing flirting at an inopportune time.

Someone said the other day that the situation in Europe was so bad that even Santa Claus couldn't settle it. Well, we hope he won't try it anyhow. Uncle Sam has all he can do right here in the United States.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Living on Velvet". The popular pastime of the eternal triangle comes into familiar play again during the run of this film, a modern, sophisticated study of a woman who loves two men, which causes emotional conflict of varied scope as the show progresses to a logical solution. Kay Francis, the star, is given the opportunity of putting on a style show with at least fifteen new gowns designed especially for her, and the whole picture is smart, well directed, with splashes of really enjoyable dialogue. George Brent and Warren William are in the supporting group of players.

Orpheum: "Sorrell and Son" and "Inside Information". Father and son love were never better shown than in the first picture, adapted from the world famous novel of Warwick Deeping. It tells of a father who sacrifices everything for his son, and of a son who returns that trust as he grows into a man and a great physician. H. B. Warner is featured. "Inside Information" is the second offering, a melodramatic affair with Tarzan, the police dog, in the starring role.

Kingston: "Red Morning" and "Car 99". A Portuguese sea captain and his daughter get trapped in the South Seas among wild and vicious natives when the crew of their boat forces them ashore through treachery. Filled with tense situations, excitement, danger and melodrama, this talkie is good fun for those who want constant action in their movies. There are some excellent south sea island scenes of matchless beauty. Directed by Wallace Ford, the cast offers Steffi Duna, Regis Toomey, George Lewis, Raymond Hatton and Mitchell Lewis. "Car 99" tells the vivid and supposedly authentic story of the battle between the crack Michigan State Police and a bandit gang of bank robbers. Realistic, stirring, breath taking, the show is a tribute to the forces of law and order as it details the scientific advancement the troopers have to work with as they track down the gang with relentless skill. The cast includes Ann Sheridan, Sir Guy Standing, Frank Craven and Fred MacMurray.

PARENTS 'CRAB' SISTER ACT

The twin-sister act of Lily (left) and Violet Deleo, 17-year-old vaudeville dancers, took a slight detour from the footlights to the police station at Atlanta. It seems their parents in Baltimore failed to receive promised payments from the troupe manager, so they wired police to hold the girls. Lily and Violet, shown at police headquarters, expressed surprise, and the manager said something about a "bad week." (Associated Press Photo)

Earl, and wife, drove to Guildersland Saturday and visited her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold and family.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DuBois called on Mrs. Jennie Green at the Orthmann Hospital Friday, and found her greatly improved.

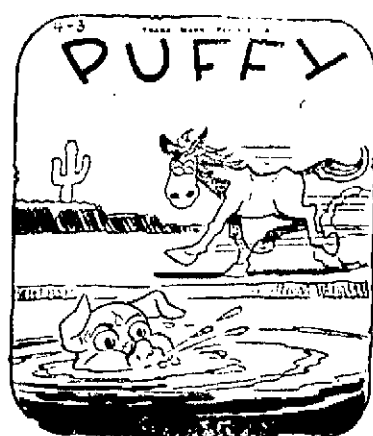

Harry Stoutenburg of West Hurley was a caller at Haver's Garage Saturday.

A birthday party was given for John Brooks Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Brooks and family of Kingston, and Lewis Brooks and daughter, Cornelia, of Ellenville, were among those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Green called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barringer and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Barringer, and found her able to walk outdoors.

The Misses Maggie and Anna McDermott of Saugerties called on Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Jones Sunday.

Harlow MacLean of Brodhead was a caller here Monday.

"Haw, haw!" laughs the pony. "You thought you'd ride ME! But I'm my own boss, as I think you can see." Puff splutters and wheezes—he's practically drowned. And meanwhile the broncho keeps prancing around.

Beauty And Utility In Terrace

Colorful Awnings Suggested For Georgian House

Adding to the character of this Georgian type house is a broad terrace opening onto a garden. The terrace could be made colorful by brilliant awnings and at the same time provide a shelter that adds space to the house itself.

Either stucco of white-washed brick may be used for the exterior. And either tile or slate roof would lend itself to the design.

Both living room and dining room lead to the terrace. The living room is unusually large, with a fireplace in the center. There is also a fireplace in the master bedroom, which has its own private bath. The other two bedrooms are conveniently located in relation to the second bath. Large closets, spacious kitchen cupboards and well placed entries are indicated.

The most suitable location would be on an inside lot, but a corner lot may also be selected. The house can be built economically, considering its size and conveniences. Estimates range from $10,000 to $12,000, with local labor costs and prices of materials important factors.

TAKING THE DRUDGERY FROM HOUSEWORK

ONE of the modern inventions that has taken the drudgery out of spring house-cleaning is washable wallpaper. In the old days, after the careful housewife had turned the house upside down and cleaned it thoroughly, everything was apt to look fresh and sparkling except the walls, which were likely to show the wear and tear of the past winter season.

Now, all the modern housewife has to do if she has been clever enough to paper her house with the new colorful papers that are actually washable, is to remove the winter stains with soap and water or any ordinary dry cleaner.

The new Imperial wallpapers are available in patterns that fit into every type of room, and whether flowers, lozenges or stylized motifs are preferred there is a pattern for each demand. In colors, ranging all the way from the softest pastels to the brilliant, deep, modern tones. There is a colorful paper for rooms of all periods.

Bathroom Trend Toward Utility, Comfort, Beauty

Utility combined with convenience, comfort, and a touch of luxurious beauty is the theme of the modern trend in bathroom planning. The bathroom of today, the product of years of research and of the combined study of many experts, is recognized as one of the most important units of the home.

The modern bathroom should be comfortably large and at the same time sufficiently compact so that it does not occupy an unnecessary proportion of space.

Simplicity of design, combined with the most modern plumbing fixtures, are among its outstanding features, while its charm and cheeriness make it a joy.

Sanitation, however, is the first consideration. This calls for materials which are easily cleaned and equipment of the latest design and finest construction and workmanship.

In the bathroom which approaches the ideal, the wash basin is sufficiently spacious so that the water is not easily splashed or dripped on walls or floor. A large, attractive, well-appointed medicine cabinet with a mirror door is at a convenient height over the basin, with a modern electric-light fixture on each side.

Towel racks are fastened to the wall at either side, while receptacles for soap and toothbrushes are conveniently placed over it. A built-in closet with plenty of shelves for the storage of towels and other bathroom necessities is a great convenience.

The recessed bathtub, surmounted by a neat shower and protected by an attractive sliding, damp-proof curtain, is convenient for a hot tub bath or a cool, brisk shower. The soap receptacle is just at the place where a groping hand can find it.

A large, luxurious wall mirror over the bathtub brightens up the bathroom tremendously and is a convenience for dressing. The window provides plenty of daylight and ventilation.

The toilet is beside one end of the bathtub and across the room from the wash basin. A scale for daily weighing is a handy accessory which can be placed wherever desired.

HOUSING HINTS

Tips on How and What to Improve

Maintenance Economy
One of the best ways of eliminating constant paint and maintenance costs on the outside walls of your home is to cover over the old surfaces with siding shingles that match your roof. Besides giving you double protection these shingles, finished in colors and designs that will last as long as your house, mean no more three-year overhauls. The past decade has seen a great increase in the popularity of siding shingles, particularly those made out of a combination of asbestos fibers and cement. They come in types ranging from imitation hand-hewn colonial shingles that look as though they had been applied in the 18th century to cleverly designed imitation cedar-wood patterns.

In choosing siding as well as roof shingles one should be careful to select a type that matches the setting as well as the architecture of the house.

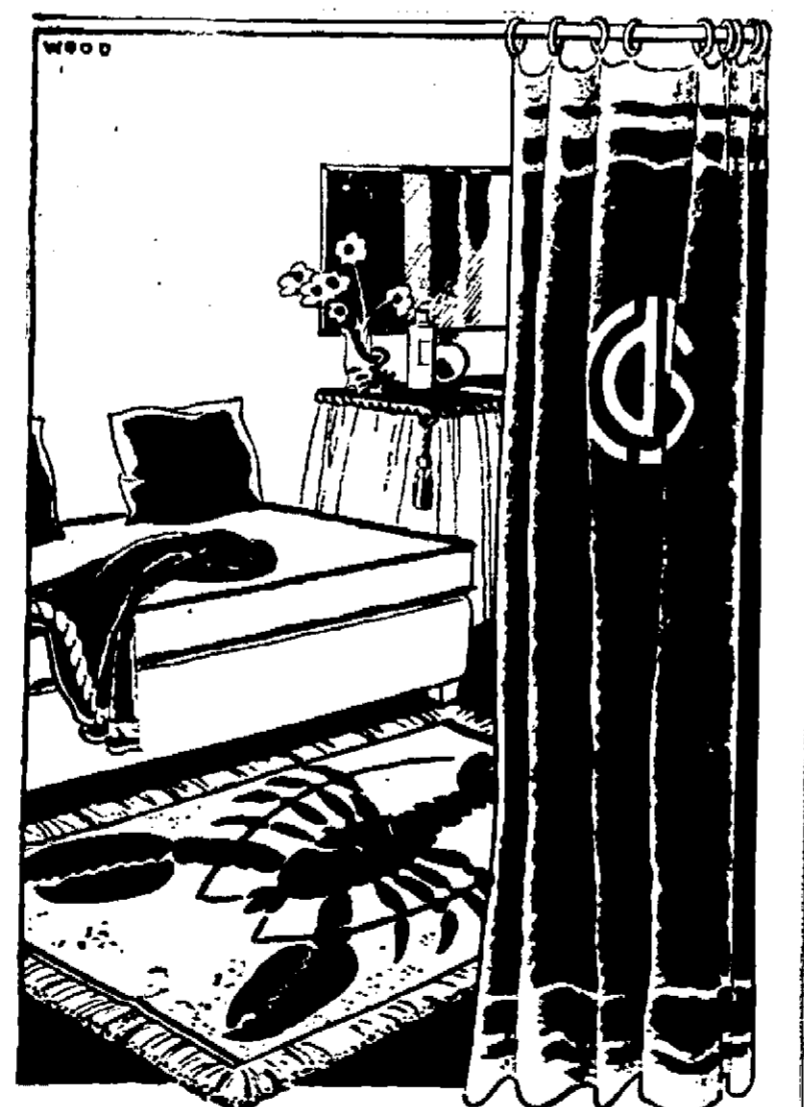

Factory Care

Dark walls, ceilings, columns, posts, and other interior portions of factories often are a contributory cause of accidents. Such is the case when they do not reflect available light to exposed parts of machinery and other equipment with which employees may be working. A fresh coat of light-colored paint, calcimine, or other finishing material, is a profitable investment in reducing unnecessary factory accidents which entail medical bills, wage expenditures for lost time, and added insurance costs, as well as human suffering for which there is no measure.

Towels For Drying? Not At All—
They're Rugs And Draperies Now

Here are next Summer's beach home decorations.

By MARGERY TAYLOR
(Copyright, 1935, By McCall's Magazine for The Freeman)

If you think towels are for drying yourself, you'll change your mind next summer.

Towels will be wall-hangings, rugs, window draperies, portieres and "upholstery." For the summer cabin or beach house, you will glory in the discovery of the lively originality and downright comfort of towels as decoration.

Take one of the enormous new beach towels with more-than-lifeline designs of fish and lobsters in brilliant coral, yellow, blue, green or shrimp color, or the tropical scene with palm, gulls, sailboats and waves—what a wall hanging near a green terry cloth covered couch!

For draperies you can hang the towels on a pole with wooden rings, and you'll need no shades. A big bath sheet edged with thick string fringe makes a delightful rug. A paired towel will make portieres or a modest partition for crowded dressing rooms.

And what could be more sensible for a home where the folks live in bathing suits than stools and dressing tables with towel-rings?

You can go wild with color, if you want to, or you can be subtle—the new towels come for all tastes. Color schemes you will like are robin's egg blue, shrimp and brown, yellow, jade green and white, red, white and blue. You will find plaids, stripes and amusing dots, as well as clear plain colors—and, of course, there are the sea-going designs.

You can get unbelievably formal-looking effects with very dark tones, like—sage blue, wine red, dark green, brown and black—and you can have white borders and big white monograms.

And don't miss the no-walking chair—upholstered with big sponge pads held in place with fish net.

Built-In Ironing Board
Boon to Modern Homes

Built-in ironing boards are among the most convenient aids to the housekeeper. New apartments and houses include them as part of the regular equipment, but they are readily installed at little expense and trouble and can easily be added to any suitable room in the house.

The board is ready at a moment's notice, and as soon as the ironing or pressing is completed, returns, "by a simple twist of the wrist," to its proper place in the wall. A special outlet for the iron is placed in the receptacle containing the board, while a bracket to hold the cord from interfering with use of the iron is added. The whole outfit occupies so little space and is so well hidden that it might easily be "the secret panel" of the mystery story.

While the logical place for the built-in board is in the kitchen, the housekeeper's workshop, it is sometimes inconvenient to place it there. It might be installed on the back of the linen closet door, or in a bedroom or bathroom, or on an enclosed porch.

Where there are children an extra ironing board and electric iron are often useful. Little wardrobes must be kept fresh. Sometimes the garments that look wrinkled and mussed need the ironing board, not the laundry tub, and thus the convenient built-in board, ever ready with its accompanying iron, cuts down laundry expense and labor.

Every woman loves dainty things, freshly laundered, especially in the summer. It takes but a few moments to rinse out collars and cuffs, lingerie, hose and dresses. Wrapping them in a bath towel hastens drying. Then the ironing board is adjusted, the current turned on, and—with very little time and labor—a fresh wardrobe is available.

The men in the family, too, have realized the opportunities afforded by this home convenience and have not been slow to take advantage of them. They have found that a damp cloth, a hot iron, and a board that practically takes care of itself—instead of the old wobbly make-shift propped on two chairs—combined with slight personal effort, are most efficient helps to a good appearance.

The built-in ironing board is a good friend to every member of the household.

Hints on Selecting
Your Wall Paper

During recent years wall paper has come again into vogue and a good thing too, for with the newer developments in paper, washable and interesting design, it makes an attractive wall covering. The following are a few pointers to observe in selecting paper for your rooms:

Avoid large all-over designs in small rooms. Small designs and regular designs for small rooms is a good rule to follow. Lozenges and diaper papers are excellent choices for cramped wall spaces.

Any paper, scenic or otherwise, that has perspective, adds space to small rooms such as hallways, vestibules, etc. Scenic paper is very good for long narrow rooms or long narrow hallways. The large wall spaces are thus given such variety and interest that their size is not noticed.

Never use stripes in a narrow room. Some decorators give the rule that stripes should be used only in low rooms that are given unusual interest by being made to look their full height. A narrow room is simply awkward with stripes.

Where spaces are badly cut up architecturally, as they often must be in small halls, upstairs bedrooms and twisting stairways, a paper of bold patterning attracts the attention away from defects and centers it in the interesting pattern itself.

Some of the new wall paper is patterned so that it is darker and heavier towards the bottom. Much scenic wall paper is of this sort. Such wall paper is "right" because it has the proportions that good paintings—and the landscape itself has—heavy design close to the eye and lighter farther away.

A lot of things are as easy to do as falling off a log but in falling off a log one is apt to get one's feet wet.

Mr. Moore Predicts Prices Will Rise

To the Editor Real Estate and Better Homes Departments Kingston Daily Freeman:

You asked me recently about the Kingston Real Estate situation and my belief in the future of the real estate business in Kingston.

Real estate in Kingston at the present time is moving slowly but surely on the upward trend—Holders of property in and around Kingston should realize even though property is not selling as high as in former years that in the course of a short time it will advance—real estate is safe to own at any time regardless of downward or upward price trends. It is a permanent fixture compared with many other investments—fortunes have been made in it and lost too for that matter but when you own a piece of real estate there is always something tangible.

To have money to invest in a home, particularly at this time when real estate is offered at very low prices is good business.

The man who buys and pays for a home is going to get ahead, he will have something tangible to look forward to in the years to come, he will have something for the family to live in, sell or rent after he has

REALTOR COINED BY ASSOCIATION FOR ITS MEMBERS

The term Realtor is a coined term adopted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and is defined to mean a person engaged in the real estate business who is an active member of a constituted board or association, and as such, a member of the national association, who is subject to its rules and regulations, who observes its standards and conduct and who is entitled to its benefits.

The exclusive right of the association to use of the term to designate such a member of a member board has been upheld by eleven court decisions handed down in six states.

passed on. Kingston offers some very remarkable bargains in real estate for home, business or investment through the local real estate brokers and these brokers feel as I do that Kingston is in for more business and real estate activity than for the past three or four years.

Maine Family Pays Rent for 59 Years

For one family to pay rent for a period of 59 years is a pretty good record, and that is the record revealed by the announcement that Fred R. Allen of a small town in Maine, is going to move for the first time. He is living in the house where his father began paying rent before Fred was born, and following the death of his parents he continued to reside there. The house is going to be torn down—consider for a moment, the following amount of money paid by the family in the 59 years and what a home they could have paid for with the money paid as rent.

10 yrs. rent at $15 per mo. . .	$1,800
5 yrs. rent at $25 per mo. . .	1,500
15 yrs. rent at $30 per mo. . .	5,400
20 yrs. rent at $32 per mo. . .	7,680
9 yrs. rent at $35 per mo. . .	3,780
Total . . .	$20,160

A home investment is the saving kind of an investment.

BEFORE AND AFTER MODERNIZATION

With the advent of spring modernization becomes one of the uppermost thoughts in the mind of any home owner.

Contractors, builders and architects believe that at present home modernization is possible at the lowest price and predict that within the short space of several months rises in prices of materials will be noted. At present a great deal may be done at small cost to the owner. The above photograph shows what one owner did with his home, how he took advantage of present low prices to modernize.

Survey Shows Improvement In Farm Home

Washington, D. C.—Farm building improvements continue to hold a strong place in the tabulation of modernization work done in conjunction with the Better Housing Program under the National Housing Act, with every indication that the coming of Spring will see a big increase in operations in the rural sections.

Representatives of the Federal Housing Administration visiting farming communities report that bankers are receiving more inquiries from farmers and that loan commitments for later use are increasing.

Home Comes First

Home improvements are receiving as much attention as barns, outbuildings, and other equipment, and in most instances where farmers have availed themselves of the Modernization Credit Plan all structures are given needed attention.

A survey of the work done on farm homes shows a surprisingly large number of water systems being installed, also heating plants and electricity for lighting and household appliances. Painting and roofing continue to lead the improvements.

Additions to and replacements of barns, stables, granaries, and similar equipment are being governed largely by the matter of business efficiency. New granaries, for instance, are being built not only to conserve high-priced feed but in many instances to stop losses by rats and other pests. A more diversified livestock program, especially the keeping of a few cows and breeding horses, has in some instances necessitated more stable room.

Costs Are Low

A striking feature of the farm modernization work is the comparatively low cost. Credit obtained averages slightly less than $500. And since the nature of their business often requires them to be somewhat skilled mechanics, farmers, by doing the great bulk of their building themselves, are spending most of the money for building materials and equipment.

Green Says Home Vital U. S. Problem

The United States Government could consider no problem of greater importance than home ownership for the average citizen.

This is the opinion of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, expressed during a recent radio talk in connection with the Better Housing Program of the Federal Housing Administration.

"Each American home serves as an instrumentality through which the family reaches its roots down deep into the soil of our national life and thus adds to its vigor and sturdiness," Mr. Green asserted.

"Home and family life are the chief assets of the nation. In fact, the American home is the cornerstone of the Republic. In proportion as we create opportunities for home ownership and the elevation of family life to a higher, materialistic, cultural, and artistic plane we create guarantees for the preservation and perpetuation of our free institutions. Democracy with all its implications will be permanently established on the American continent if we make America a land of home owners who are guaranteed an annual income sufficient to maintain life and living commensurate with the requirements of modern civilization and American life."

Housing Boom This Spring, Experts Aver

One of the biggest modernizing booms "of all time" is rapidly getting under way, according to building analysts and experts close to the construction industry of the nation, the Federal Housing Administration has been informed.

Given as reason for this opinion are the following factors in the present-day modernization impetus.

The easy payment, "no-money-down" features of the Federal Housing Administration's modernization loan plan.

The approach of spring and summer, ideal building and repair seasons.

The nationwide set-up of financial institutions as lending agencies under the modernization credit plan.

More widespread understanding of the true nature of the Federal Housing Administration's plan of financing and more general appreciation of the profits open to financial institutions through the making of "character loans" for modernizing.

A noticeable "modernization consciousness" on the part of the general public, resulting from steady and frequently repeated publicity of all phases of the modernization credit plan.

Builders Now "Sold"

The fact that contractors, builders, carpenters, dealers and subcontractors have become "sufficiently sold" on the Better Housing Program, and are now making serious efforts to merchandise building materials and sell the idea of renovating to the general public.

The introduction into the building trades of the installment selling method.

The Housing Administration also has been notified that there is a widespread understanding of the difficulties that attended the organization of the Better Housing Program and that the building trades are conscious of the fact that the housing movement was slow to get into full swing because of the magnitude of the project. Now that the foundation has been well laid, the sentiment on every hand is that the spring of 1935 will mark a boom period in modernization in the United States that is without precedent in history.

Sale of building materials is on the upgrade; sales methods are being taught to the widespread members of the same trades; every impulse that is available is being placed behind the drive to "step up" housing and modernization activity in every village, town, hamlet and metropolitan center. It is predicted authoritatively that the spring of 1935 will bear out these contentions.

Relay Day Work

Irrespective of how rain, snow, cold or disagreeable the weather may be, modernization work may be done inside of a home. Interior work in connection with wiring, plumbing, heating, doors, walls, partitions, stairs, basements, attic, and the like, can usually be most economically done during the slack winter period before available building craftsmen are needed for new construction, which usually increases during the spring and summer.

Of modern civilization and American life.

The American Federation of Labor is endeavoring to achieve this purpose. Its fight for higher standard of living, annual wage, and annual income sufficient to maintain a breadwinner's family in decency and comfort is in the interest of American home owners, and, in the last analysis, in the interest of our national life and our free democratic institutions.

Marked Trend Toward Colors Shown In New Sidewalk Styles

As reports of plans for the general modernization and repair drive this spring reach the Federal Housing Administration from all parts of the country, information is included that there is a trend toward color in sidewalks that comprise a part of the rehabilitation program in many sections.

From all indications, when new sidewalks are built this spring, many will reflect the more subdued hues of the spectrum. Color, the Housing Administration has been informed, has become a matter of style in widely divergent parts of the nation.

The trend from monotone to polychrome effects in sidewalk design is said to be due to two factors: (1) the development of fast color pigments in shades to match house, garden and landscape; (2) the opportunity provided by the modernization program of the Federal Housing Administration to finance sidewalk improvement.

Two variations in pigmented sidewalk styles have been developed so far: Vivid hues in patterns for entrance walks to stores and offices; more conservative colors for walks around the dwelling. Colors which rapidly are becoming popular for home sidewalks, from street to porch or patio around the grounds, are dark green, blue and brown. Variety is given in some cases by marking of the walks to simulate tiles or by placing individual slabs in flagstone or steppingstone patterns. The cost of adding color to the finished walk is said to be negligible.

Tells Ways to Build the Lawn

The Freeman has received a copy of a Cornell bulletin which tells how to build and maintain lawns.

The bulletin says: "Most home owners desire a beautiful lawn. New York's climate favors the growth of grass, and the rainfall is such as to require little irrigation. At special times, however, as immediately after germination of the seed, proper amounts of moisture should be given the young grass plants. Also, during an occasional hot spell or drought, some watering will be necessary."

"A cheap job of lawn construction will not pay. Haste is wasteful, but every step must count. A well-prepared lawn will last a lifetime, whereas one that is poorly built is, in the end, more expensive to maintain than one properly prepared at the start."

The bulletin has 52 pages. It tells what grass seed to select, how to make lawn mixtures, how to prepare and maintain new and old lawns, what to do about weeds, insects, and diseases, and it has other information that lawn-growers should have.

The Kingston Daily Freeman has been informed that this bulletin will be sent free of charge to residents of New York state. A penny postcard to the office of publication in Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y., brings a copy. Send request to the office in Ithaca, and ask for bulletin E-235.

Scotland Yard's success according to a British critic, is due to its lack of politics. We supposed the English detective story writers had something to do with it.

Here is a lesson for those European nations: Finland is the only nation which paid us what she owed us; and Finland is the only one of the debtor nations who doesn't seem in danger of getting into war. The moral is that it pays to be honest and settle your debts.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sick and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of pills, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your discomfort is feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile into the bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up in your stomach. You have a chills, bad taste and your tongue is coated. Your skin often breaks out in your breath is foul.

Get back to the normal state of health. Your liver is the most important organ in your body. It is the only one that filters out all the poisons from your blood.

You can't go wrong choosing a little cotton dress like this for growing daughter. As to cut, it is in the best of style and taste. For something particularly dainty, nautical blue and white dimity is effective with the tiered sleeves and neck bow of white organdie.

Style No. 3119 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

Send TEN CENTS (10c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred) for PATTERN. Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS AND STYLE NUMBER. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE YOU WISH.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1627-B

Summer Frock with Ruffled Details

Pretty Summer dresses for informal afternoon wear have a feminine quality which makes a universal appeal and somehow manages to make them flattering to all ages and types of women.

The model pictured in the sketch is typical. A floral print, suitably multicolored, is used. One sees the style developed in many different materials; the particular requirement being a soft, drapable quality so that the ruffles will hang gracefully. In cottons the new anti-crease voiles are a fashion of high importance. This year. The more so because of the process they have been put through to make them stand up against daily wear without constant pressing.

This little frock expresses femininity with interesting simplicity, and therefore is recommended. The general lines of the frock are slim and straight, broadish through the upper bodice being achieved by color ruffles which are cut slightly circular then gathered and attached to the turn-over collar. The sleeves are short and similarly finished.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1627-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material.

Tomorrow: Misses sports frock with simple lines.

DRESS REHEARSAL FOR THE EASTER PARADE

Spring has made its entrance and the feminine sex is holding "dress rehearsals" for the Easter parade. Confidentially, we understand styles like those shown above will be prominently displayed. Taffeta coatees, such as the one modeled left, are a Heim idea for spring chic. This one is of dark gunmetal gray barred in white and fastened with a patent leather belt. It tops a frock of heavy black crepe trimmed with white organdie and is worn with a little black straw toque rimmed with a circular veil. Cotton sailors, as shown left, with collar and bow to match, will be in vogue. This one is in white and navy blue, trimmed with navy grosgrain. (Associated Press Photos)

Q. Duck

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE boat was a beauty. There was no mistake about it. The ducks quacked so loudly that all the other ducks came to see what was going on, and when they saw the sailing vessel, they barked and cawed and growled and crowed and bleated their admiration.

Puddle Mud. 4-3

"If you'll do just this one more favor I'll be so very, very grateful."

quacked Mrs. Quacko. "I wonder if you would just paint the name on her side," asked Mrs. Quacko.

"What is her name to be?" asked Willy Nilly.

"Well," quacked Mrs. Quacko, "our family name is that of Quacko Duck, and I think it would look very fine to have 'Q. Duck' painted on the side."

"Very fine idea," agreed Willy Nilly, so they all stood around and watched while Willy Nilly painted the name of the boat at the stern where he said it should be.

They had to wait for the name to dry, and while they waited Mrs. Quacko rushed around and made brook lemonade and pond weed sandwiches for everyone.

At last it was dry, and Willy Nilly said:

"Now we'll launch the boat Mrs. Quacko, will you fill an acorn cup with stream water and name the boat as I slide her in?"

Mrs. Quacko was all of a nervous flutter. She was certainly an excited duck.

The boat slipped easily into the pond, and in a loud, though somewhat shaking voice, Mrs. Duck quacked, as she poured the water over the vessel:

"I name you Q. Duck."

OFFICERS ELECTED BY RIP VAN WINKLE TRIANGLE.

The regular meeting of Rip Van Winkle Triangle, No. 51, Daughters

Order of the Eastern Star, was held at Masonic Hall, 250 Wall street,

Thursday evening, March 28. The beloved queen, Ethel Mae Jones, presided. All officers were present. Courtiers were extended to the hono-rairees. Following the opening ceremonies and the reading of reports, Mrs. Olympia Collins, the junior deputy, presided for the election of officers. The following officers were elected for the ensuing six months: Janet Finley, beloved queen; Phyllis Van Buren, senior lady in waiting; Violet Schmalko, junior lady in waiting; Edna

Reilly, guardian; Evelyn Howard, chaplain; Jean Eaton, treasurer;

Lois Tremper, corresponding and recording secretary; Harriet Rice, financial secretary; Elsie Buchanan, flag bearer; Emily Jane Blackshaw, standard bearer; Hermine Lebesch, marshal; Thelma Howard, assistant marshal.

The pianist, bachelorette and under will be appointed as Janet Finley, the beloved queen.

The capricious and daddies will be appointed by the junior deputy, Mrs. Collins.

Plans were made for attending the district meeting of that order of the Eastern Star at Catskill, Friday, March 29, when the members of Rip Van Winkle took part in a presentation of gifts to Mrs. Wirtley May R. Johnston, grand matron of the state of New York, and Night

Worship Alice M. Souders, grand matron of the Eastern Star, and supervisor of Rip Van Winkle Triangle.

At the next meeting of the Triangle, Thursday evening, April 11, the officers will be installed and at this meeting will be a public one, it is expected that many will be present to witness the ceremony.

Talks to parents

Saving One's Face

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The doctor finally gave the verdict that Mary must be sent away from home. "Summer camp now and boarding school later, Mrs. Smith.

You cannot manage the child, nor can I. She needs to be put into a school where there is a student government, and taught to conform to rules and conventions laid down by girls of her own age."

Mrs. Smith was shocked and humilated. She had prided herself on never shirking responsibility, and to her, sending Mary away was a confession of failure, and an effort to pass on to some one else a duty which she could not fulfill.

Perhaps Mary's unmanageableness was Mrs. Smith's fault. It may be that the very sense of duty which was offended now was in part responsible for the growing girl's rebellion. But if so, the mischief was done, and the only remedy was to try a new handling of the problem if

Mary was to be kept in hand at all.

No parents are all-wise and infallible. Sometimes in training children they make only minor mistakes which leave very slight if any permanent traces, and so give little cause for regret. Sometimes, however, they fail completely to understand a child, and mishandle it from the outset.

The only remedy then is to acknowledge defeat and do the best they can to repair the damage.

After all, the essential object is the child's welfare, and the hurt to the parents' self-esteem is a negligible consideration. For it is one's pride that is hurt by the confession of failure, and too often parents refuse to consider this point and talk about "shirking their duty" or "shifting responsibility" when what they really mean is "covering their failure," or to use a vivid idiom, "sav-

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JACOB

New York, April 3 (AP).—The stock market pursued the line of least resistance today and drifted quietly downward under the weight of industrial and metals.

Confronted at the outset by a general mixture of mid-week business news, the best of which was only mildly encouraging, the market made a feeble effort to fight back at the opening but soon tired and slipped back into the narrow lower groove into which it was maneuvered in the late trading Tuesday by a fresh sinking spell of nearly 3 points in U. S. Smelting and a few other pivotal issues.

Other mining issues suffered less drastically, but a number of key industrial yields a point or more, including Du Pont, Bethlehem Steel, American Tobacco and J. I. Case. Coca Cola encountered trouble after its recent run up to above 200 and slipped back more than 2 points. General Motors and Chrysler joined the general downward procession along with Goodyear, Johns-Manville, Reynolds Tobacco and American Bank Note.

Rails, utilities and packing shares were most resistant but such leaders as American Telephone, Union Pacific, Wilson and Public Service of New Jersey went along with the rest of the list with fractional losses predominating.

City Captured.

Hong Kong, April 3 (AP).—Communist forces in Kwangchow province who broke through provincial troops, today captured the city of Chinghai, a small town and occupied Tientsin and Tsingtao and approached within 40 miles of Kweichow, capital of the province. It was understood no military action was contemplated.

Bodies of Couple Stuffed in a Well

Fredericksburg, Va., April 3 (AP).—The bodies of an elderly couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Coleman, were found stuffed in a well on their farm near here today.

The two were evidently the victims of robbers who ransacked their farm home. The body of the woman, showing wounds inflicted about the head, was first discovered in the well. After the removal of her body, officers found that of her husband. He had been shot in the head.

The woman was clad in underclothing. The Coleman's automobile was missing from the home. It was reported to have been seen last night at a filling station near Thornburg, a village not far from here.

Bus Company Filed Necessary Papers

In answer to an item which appeared in The Freeman Tuesday from Albany, in which the Public Service Commission issued an order for public hearings in connection with bus companies that had failed to file corporate bonds or policies of insurance, the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corporation, one of the companies named, stated today that the necessary papers had been filed with the Department of Motor Vehicles for some time, and that it was through a misunderstanding that copies of the papers had not been filed with the commission. It was stated that necessary insurance was carried by the company, and that the copies would be filed at the commission offices on Thursday.

The Meliks Honored At Artists' Dinner

Among the guests of honor at the recent dinner of the National Academy of Fine Arts in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York city, were Zaven Melik, baritone singer, and Soss Melik, artist, sons of Mrs. M. Melik, of 59 South Clinton avenue, Kingston.

The artists were most enthusiastic in the reception of Zaven Melik, who was at his best in several Russian numbers, and his interpretation of Koenemann's "When the King Went Forth to War." This song was not listed on the program but was an extemporaneous request on the part of Feodor Chaliapin, regarded as one of the greatest operatic singers of all time.

President Jonas Lie of the academy, acting as master of ceremonies, voiced disapproval of European artists obtaining portrait commissions in this country, that rightfully should go to the painters of the American Academy. Mr. Lie paid high tribute to Soss Melik as "the youngest portrait painter of the American Academy for holding and elevating the standard of American art as well as expanding the tradition of American portrait painting despite his youth."

Heading the list of honored guests at the dinner were the Hon. Florentino La Guardia, mayor of the city of New York; Herbert Adams, ex-president of the academy; George Blumenthal, president of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; Mrs. John Breckinridge; Mrs. Cass Gilbert, widow of the noted architect; Juliana Force; Fannie Hurst; Prof. Frank Jewett Mather, internationally renowned critic and professor at Princeton University; Harding Scholle; James Speyer; H. W. Wairoos, president emeritus of the academy; and Feodor Chaliapin.

REORGANIZATION OF THE PIERCE-ARROW COMPANY

According to William M. Davis, the local Pierce-Arrow distributor, the incorporation of a new company to be known as The Pierce-Arrow Motor Corporation was effected March 30 following the signing of a Federal Court decree approving the reorganization of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company. Capital for the new company has been completely underwritten, and the production of the 1935 Pierce-Arrow twelve and eights continued without interruption.

Arthur J. Chanter was chosen to continue as president and chairman of the board of the new company. Other directors are: J. Ernest Allen of New York, who participated in the reorganization; Ansley W. Sawyer, Kenneth Strain, Benjamin Sheets, Charles M. Kennedy, and Charles H. Diefendorf of Buffalo, N. Y.; Edward B. Germain, president of the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Corporation; Barry F. Pope, chairman of the Marine Midland Corporation; Sheldon A. Ducet of New York; and Dallas E. Winslow of Detroit. The new directors elected Mr. Allen chairman of the executive committee and continued Martin C. Ewald as secretary and treasurer, and Thomas J. O'Rourke as general sales manager.

Mr. Davis says that the reaction of the news of this reorganization has been most gratifying and to celebrate this important announcement, Mr. Davis is holding a special exhibit of the new eights and twelves at the local showrooms, 124 North Front street. These 1935 models include cars similar to those Pierce-Arrows recently delivered to Princess Helene of Greece and the Royal House of Belgium.

Great Britain and Poland in Agreement

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Warsaw, April 3.—Great Britain and Poland today agreed to "the desirability of maintaining close contact" on the European situation, with authoritative quarters indicating a Pan-European security system as a likely result.

The amendment was reached with Polish statesmen by Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, as he concluded two days of conversations concerned with the general peace of Europe and prepared to depart for Praha and more conferences.

As the conferences parted, they gave each other mutual assurances described officially as concerning "the desirability of maintaining close contact in regard to future developments in the European situation."

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, April 3.—Two new junior class members were added to the Sunday School roll Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Thompson, superintendent, was in charge. At the close the new second quarterly lesson books were given out. Plans are under way for the presenting of an appropriate Easter program. Some of the assignments have been made and first rehearsal will take place at the assembly next Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Everyone is cordially invited.

With Mrs. West as their hostess, the children of the West Shokan school enjoyed greatly a maple sugar party following a scheduled meeting of the "Junior Town Club" Friday afternoon.

The meeting with officers and members assembled, opened with the lusty singing of the club song led by Charles Weldner. Then followed in unison the impressive reciting of the good citizens pledge, which the routine business matters were interestingly conducted.

Little Miss Dorothy Dwyer's name was recorded as putting forward "best efforts" for the last two weeks. Singing of the school song brought the meeting to a close.

AGED SHOKAN RESIDENT INJURED TUESDAY IN FALL

West Shokan, April 3.—Mrs. Sarah Barringer, 53, Shokan's oldest resident, fell from the porch Tuesday afternoon and sustained a broken right hip and shoulder. S-O-C-I-E-T-Y

Lowell Club

The Lowell Club met Tuesday with Mrs. Wonders. Miss Pettigell had the first and a valuable paper on "Grover Cleveland." This was followed by another admirable paper on "The Year of Strikes," given by Mrs. Nelson. Miss Quimby had a third paper entertainingly portraying "Julia Ward Howe." During the meeting the members drew their subjects from the general topic for study next year—China. Arrangements were in the making for the annual luncheon which will be held at The Kirkland at one o'clock on Saturday, April 13th. The meeting next Tuesday will be with Mrs. Snyder at her home on Clinton avenue, when yearly reports will be given and the election of officers will take place.

About The Folks

V. W. Rose has been in the Kingston Hospital for several days where he has been under treatment by Dr. Meyers for an injury sustained while in swimming last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Branigan of Port Richmond, Staten Island, who recently returned from Miami, Fla., there stopped over the week-end with friends and relatives in and around Kingston.

John J. "Duke" Miller, superintendent of building at the Kingston TERA headquarters, returned to his home at 66 Crown street Tuesday afternoon after spending several days in the Kingston Hospital, where he had been treated by Dr. T. Hampton Jones.

ZENIA

Zenia, April 3.—Barbara Terwilliger is still a very sick little girl and is in the Benedictine Hospital.

The dance at the Zenia Country Club held Friday evening attracted a large and happy gathering and the young folks had a wonderful time dancing to the music by the Symphonians, an orchestra of four pieces. There will be another dance at the clubhouse on Friday evening, April 12. The public is invited.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Long and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. George Long of Kingston.

Hanson Booth, the well known illustrator and brother of Franklin Booth, departed for a month's visit with another brother, Clarence Booth, in California.

Services in the Reformed Church were especially for the young folk and a large representation of the Christian Endeavor Society was present. The Rev. John Heidenreich preached a special sermon, "The Second

Action On Highway Bill

Albany, April 3 (Special).—Because the Democratic party failed to assemble the necessary 26 membership majority in the Senate yesterday until the hour for conference measures had been well advanced, the Ulster county highway bill to abolish this position and set up in its stead a county engineer was put over. The Senate did not meet until after one o'clock. It was delayed in getting off its scheduled start this morning, so that at this writing it remains uncertain that action is to be taken on measures including this and those similar to it.

Should the Senate fail to ratify the proposed Byrne bill today it will in all probability wait until next week, unless there is a full working day tomorrow.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks waited patiently yesterday for the bill to take an appearance for argument, and during part of this time Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Ulster county representative, lurked in the background of the upper house chamber.

No new angle has been given to this measure. The co-sponsor of the legislation in the Assembly, John A. Hayes, stated that although the Rules Committee had met the previous day that he did not move his bill from committee, and that when the Byrne identical measure is sent to his chamber for concurrence that he will debate this one because it will be further advanced. Mr. Hayes refused to confirm rumor that the measure is "dead" in the Assembly Rules Committee or that it had been killed before all Assembly bills went to this committee March 12.

Proven Herd Sire Problem Answered

Proven sire work is making tremendous strides among progressive dairymen according to the Ulster County Farm Bureau. However, the question is often asked, What is a Proven Sire?

Several years ago the proven sire work was started by the State College of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, through the Dairy Improvement Association operated by the Farm Bureau. About 40 dairymen are members of the Ulster county association. Two men are employed to do the necessary weighing, testing and compute the records of production and feed costs. These summaries are forwarded to the State College and the records changed to a mature basis.

As soon as annual records of production on five daughters are completed, which can be compared with the records of the dams or mothers, the sire is proven. If the daughters produce less milk and butterfat, he is proven to be unsatisfactory, but if he increases the production he is a valuable animal. Living herd sires of proven transmitting ability are comparatively rare.

It is interesting to note that a sire must be four or five years old before he can be proven. In the past most dairymen would sell the animal before this age. At the present time more dairymen are keeping the sires longer by building safety bull pens. In this way there is no need for handling the animal.

During the last year, nine Ulster county herd sires have been proven. Of the nine, four were proven favorably and three of them are still living. The best showing was made by Winterthur Best Oranishy Burke owned jointly by Raymond DuBois on R. D. Borcherting of Gardiner. This sire increased the production of milk 30.1 per cent and increased the butterfat 32.6 per cent. Ten dams average 9,178 pounds of milk in one year and 310 pounds of butterfat.

The 10 daughters, computed on a mature basis, produced an average of 11,943 pounds of milk and 411 pounds of butterfat.

Another sire, King Mutual Rose 14th, owned by Fred DuBois of New Paltz increased the production from 11,655 pounds of milk and 376 pounds of butterfat to 12,331 pounds of milk and 398 of fat. This is an increase of 5.8 per cent in milk and 8.6 per cent in fat.

John Schoonmaker of Accord owns Fobes Mercena Tensen, who increased the milk production of five daughters from 12,816 pounds to 13,644 pounds or 6.5 per cent, but the butterfat was decreased 2.1 per cent. Another sire, Rondout King, formerly owned by Millard Davis and Albert Myers of Kerhonkson, was proven very satisfactory but he was sold to a butcher before the daughters completed their records.

The keeping of a sire of transmitting ability is the best and cheapest way to increase the net income from a dairy herd. Information on this subject can be secured at the Farm Bureau office in Kingston.

Blakeley Goes to Reno To Solace the Princess

New York, April 3 (AP).—Word from Hollywood that James Blakeley, socialite film actor, had gone to Reno where Barbara Hutton, his former fiancée, is preparing to divorce Prince Alexis Mdivani, led their friends here today to speculate on the possibility of a reconciliation.

Only last May, long before Barbara wedded her marriage to the Georgian Prince of the marrying Mdivanis, Blakeley confessed that "my heart still lies in the direction of Barbara."

Now that he has fled from Hollywood to appease her loneliness in the divorce colony, friends also recalled his further admission last year that the movie colony was barren of romance for him.

When Blakeley, now 28, the son of the socially prominent Mrs. Grace Hyde, deserted society for the movies, he expressed his boredom for society and its people. When Barbara broke their engagement to marry Prince Alexis, Blakeley sought no solace in other society girls. He found them "bigoted," he said.

Hollywood marriage was not for him, he explained, because such alliances always "went askew." He sought a common unity. He imposed rigid rules of conduct on any girl of his choice, although he did not expect her to conform to his own principles of self-denial. Blakeley neither smokes nor drinks, drinks too much coffee harmful and tea bad for the teeth.

Blakeley, somewhat rudderless when his romance with Barbara ended, chose an acting career over advertising largely because he is an actor's son. His father, James Blakeley, of the English stage, was killed in the bombing of the Gaiety Theatre in London during the World War.

When Blakeley returned from Hollywood for a holiday at home last fall, he was greeted at the station with a kiss from Barbara. The kiss, it was explained at the time, was merely an expression of affection between two old playmates, not a mark of love.

During his visit Blakeley reported himself heart-free in Hollywood, but latterly his friends have heard of his fairly steady attendance upon Mary Carlisle, blonde actress.

Relief Strike Ends at Saratoga Springs

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—A two-day strike of relief workers ended today as 110 men returned to their jobs under a compromise agreement with city officials.

The men who walked out Monday asserting they were being paid starvation wages agreed:

1.—That all of those whose families are small and whose budgets are at or under $9.60 a week will remain on their jobs.

2.—That when work days are lost because of rain or inclement weather, the workers will be permitted to make up the lost time by working an additional day.

3.—That all men whose budgets are over $9.60 a week will be taken from relief jobs and placed on home relief where the city is able to meet the larger budget without increasing the welfare burden of the city taxpayers.

The compromise was reached at a meeting of the city council last night and was announced by Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, commissioner of public safety, and Theodore S. Knapp, an attorney representing the strikers.

The strike followed a reduction in the work wage scale from 50 to 40 cents an hour. The men claimed they were unable to support their families on the reduced budget as they worked only 13, eight-hour days a month.

As the strikers presented their demands last night, Saratoga police watched the corridors of city hall for a group of men they said were attempting to "enlist the strikers under the red flag."

An effort to distribute propaganda to the men was forestalled by police as they rounded up a group described as "Communist agitators" and escorted them out of the city.

There was no disturbance.

After her death yesterday afternoon it seemed likely there would be only a pauper's funeral for the penniless woman, without family, who had been living with her unpaid servant on a $2.50 weekly food allowance. But Mrs. Frank E. Campbell, widow of the founder of the Campbell Funeral Church, offered to take care of the burial.

Eviction proceedings against Mrs. Bailey were forestalled when an alderman came to her assistance.

After the elderly woman's death a dilapidated cardboard box disclosed evidences of better days—a photo of Mrs. Bailey's husband, dead since 1919, in natty Chesterfield coat and silk topper. Then there was a picture of Mrs. Bailey in pretty laces and pictures of the Baileys' son, now long dead, too.

MARKET FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, April 3 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets).—Quotations on the New York city downtown wholesale district up to 8 a. m.:

Jobbing sales on Long Island Green Mountain potatoes, U. S. No. 1, in 100 lb. sacks were reported at $1.05-1.10 for south side offerings and $0.1-1.00 for north side. New York upstate round white potatoes, U. S. No. 1, in similar size packages of ordinary quality jobbed out at 65-75.

Jobbing transactions in New York state Danish white in 50 lb. sacks were consummated at $1.75-2.00, occasionally as high as 2.25, while poorer sold down to 1.12½.

Western New York yellow onions, U. S. No. 1, in 50 lb. sacks brought $2.10-2.50 for the best and around 2.25 for poorer.

Topped washed carrots in bushel baskets jobbed out from 65-80, whereas unwashed in 100 lb. sacks brought $1.00-1.10.

Supplies of apples from various sections of the state were moderate. The demand was moderate for good quality, and the market was steady. Western New York McIntosh, N. Y. U. S. Grade No. 1, 2½ inch and upward brought $1.50-1.75, occasionally as high as 2.00 per crate or basket, while poorer sold around 1.25-1.37½. Rhode Island Greening apples, No. 1, 2½ inch and upward, sold from 1.25-1.37½ and poorer 1.00-1.15.

Deaths Ends Struggle Of Invalid Woman

New York, April 3 (AP).—Death has ended Mrs. Emma Knight Bailey, 68-year-old invalid, from her dingy west side apartment where she successfully resisted a landlord less than two weeks ago.

Paralysis, pneumonia and heart disease, death's process servers, finally got in the last word—after a stiff argument.

In the end, Mrs. Bailey was lifted out of the wheel chair to which she had been confined for 31 years.

Last Friday she was taken to a hospital but refused to stay there, insisting that she be taken back to her "dungeon" to "pass out there."

Brusquely she informed the nurses that her own servant, a young negro woman, "is a better nurse than any of you."

So they let her go.

After her death yesterday afternoon it seemed likely there would be only a pauper's funeral for the penniless woman, without family, who had been living with her unpaid servant on a $2.50 weekly food allowance. But Mrs. Frank E. Campbell, widow of the founder of the Campbell Funeral Church, offered to take care of the burial.

LENTEN SERVICES

At the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, the regular mid-week Lenten service will be held Thursday evening at 7:45. The sermon, "How Much Is Your Word Worth?" will be preached by the Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, M. A. Musical program:

Prelude—In a Mission Garden . . . Diggle

Organ Offertory

Anthem—O Taste and See How Gracious the Lord Is . . . Goas

Postlude . . . Frystinger

The Seven Words of Christ, set to music for soprano, tenor and baritone solo chorus and organ by Theodore DuBois, will be sung at Holy Cross Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A group of selected voices has been chosen to sing the chorus parts, assisted by the following soloists: Josephine Mortel Derick, soprano; Herman LaTour, tenor; and Vernon Miller, baritone. Previous renditions of this famous work have always drawn a large attendance and it is expected that a large congregation will assemble to hear the cantata which will be under the direction of Walter J. Kidd, organist at Holy Cross.

The fifth English Lenten service will be held Thursday night at 7:30 in Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets. The public is cordially invited. Musical program: Prelude, "Aria in F" by Haynes; offertory, "Offertorie" by Ashford; choir, selected; postlude, Bach, Roger Baer Schwartz, choirmaster.

Wallace Insists His Idea Is Good

Washington, April 3 (AP).—Despite the "sound spanking" that Secretary Wallace says he got for suggesting a national economic council of four men and a new, swift means of changing the constitution, he insisted today that the idea is a good one.

"What the people think about it I don't know," he said, "because I have had little opportunity to talk to many of them or to analyze my mail. However, the editorial comments were generally antagonistic."

Last January Wallace suggested an economic council "to determine by direct referendum the will of the people on key questions of national policy."

The voters would be given "direct power to amend the constitution and to veto measures which in their judgment are now misguided or no longer useful." The decision should be binding as a constitutional amendment.

Wallace asserted today that "the spirit of need for unity" on the fundamental law of the land is as great today as when the constitution was adopted. "It was just such a spirit of need for unity which gave us the constitution," he said, "and the same needs exist today" for a method of adapting that document to rapidly changing conditions.

"The possibilities of economic democracy, as opposed to distorted partisan issues, are new and unexplored," he asserted.

Wallace said a minimum of seven years is now necessary to ratify an amendment to the constitution and that is "a perilously long time."

Steel For Laboratory Has Been Received

The steel beams for the new city laboratory have just been received by the local emergency relief bureau and the work of placing the beams will be started Thursday and it is planned to start laying out the brick walls of the building the first of the week. The foundation walls were completed some time ago, but work was delayed by the non-arrival of the steel beams to be used. The laboratory is to be erected on ground adjoining the Kingston Hospital.

Inquiry Made About Court House Paintings

An inquiry was recently made by a visitor to the court house as to what had happened to the several portraits which were hung on the walls of the old court room. Since the new court room has been in use the absence of the paintings and photographs has been noted by a number of visitors who sought to locate them in other parts of the renovated court house.

A few years ago from various sources came oil paintings of some of Ulster county's illustrious attorneys who had held high public offices in the county and state. From time to time various portraits were added. Among them were paintings and portraits of such prominent men as John Suydam, Judge A. B. Park, Judge Westbrook and several others.

When the old court room was torn out and the new court room created these pictures were removed from the walls and since that time have been in storage. Apparently the committee which had in charge the remodeling of the court room was unable to find any place for the pictures. Among the oil paintings missing and which caused much comment is the huge painting of Governor Clinton which was hung at the head of the stairs in the upper corridor of the court house.

Many people interested in these old paintings and portraits have expressed an opinion that they should be taken out of storage and again hung where the public may view them.

RETIRED POSTMASTER
Accord, April 3.—The public community meeting given in honor of Lewis H. Miller, retiring postmaster, at Accord on April 1 was a decided success, 195 friends enjoying the program.

Howard C. Anderson as master of ceremonies opened the meeting by asking the Rev. B. Scholten to lead in singing. After stating the purpose of the meeting Mr. Anderson called on Mr. Scholten, who delivered an address on community spirit. A. R. Hall-Davis was called upon to speak in the place of the Rev. Roscoe Strivings, who could not be present.

Rural Carrier Percy W. Gazlay was called and spoke of the many acts of personal service the retiring postmaster had done for the public. The cooperation of the post employees in the post office and assured the meeting that the same cooperative spirit would be found under the new postmaster, Mrs. Gertrude L. Miller.

Mrs. Miller was called upon and told of her personal regard for the retiring postmaster, of his helpfulness to her in the transferring of the post office and asked for the opportunity to be of the same service to the public.

Howard C. Anderson then presented to Mr. Miller a silver loving cup inscribed in appreciation of his personal service while postmaster.

Mr. Miller responded with a few well chosen words of appreciation. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing and cards with refreshments served.

Voluntary music was furnished by the young people of the community under the direction of Henry Flynn.

Prisoners Given Booklet.
Kaunas, Lithuania, April 3 (AP).—The military court which on March 28 passed sentences against 91 Germans for allegedly conspiring to deliver Memel to Germany, met in formal session today to read to the prisoners the exact text of the verdict. Contrary to expectations, the court announced no reasons for its findings but merely handed each prisoner a booklet of 113 pages containing these reasons. Previously the defendants had only been told the nature of their sentences. The court explained today what legal steps for modification of the sentences—which included four death penalties—could be taken, announced that an appeal could be made within 14 days to the supreme court. According to general practice, the supreme court would consider the appeal for about six weeks. Should the high court sustain the military tribunal's verdict, the defendants would have only one more recourse—an appeal to the elements of the president of Lithuania.

French Mint Strikes Gold Coins for Nation

Paris, April 3 (AP).—The jingle of gold coins soon will be heard in France for the first time since the World War to give Frenchmen confidence that the yellow metal is still the soundest medium of exchange.

The mint already has struck off specimen pieces of 100 francs each which will be the only denomination. The coin bears on one side the head of Marianne, symbolizing France, wearing a winged helmet. The reverse side depicts branches of olive and oak and a sheaf of wheat. The coin weighs six grams.

Credits for issuing 1,000,000,000 francs worth of the gold pieces are included in the 1935 budget.

While the government expects there may be considerable hoarding of the new currency, it believes such hoarding in small amounts is less serious than the hoarding of bullion. The new coin will be somewhat smaller than a United States 25-cent piece.

Forecloses Commutation.
New York, April 3 (AP).—Colonel M. Skiptis, former secretary of state for Lithuania, predicted today on his arrival on the liner Olympic that the four Nazis sentenced to death by country for murder and sedition in the Memel territory will have their sentences commuted to life imprisonment. "I cannot say what the general plan is," he said, "but I should say there will be a commutation of the death sentence for the four chief prisoners to life imprisonment."

Colonel Skiptis said the situation between Germany and Lithuania is not as grave as it looks from here. Accompanied by Dr. P. Lesauskis, the former secretary of state in Memel territory, he is here to study American business conditions. He was met at the pier by Dr. Porzias Zadeckis, Polish consul general in New York.

Jamboree Thursday At American Legion

Talk among ex-servicemen indicates a record attendance at the American Legion jamboree in the Memorial Building, Thursday night, starting at 8 o'clock, when eight boxing bouts, a vaudeville show and refreshments will be furnished free to all men who served during the World War. Vince Coffey and Bill Roedel, well known ex-boxers of this city, are in charge of arranging the program and promise a real good time to all who attend. Chairman Mort Finch of the membership committee, under whose auspices the jamboree is being sponsored, as have been several others, extends a cordial invitation to all ex-servicemen to attend Thursday night's program without any obligation to the American Legion. "We want 'em all to have a good time and I hope the Memorial Building auditorium will be packed," are the words of Legionnaire Finch.

FREE MEALS ON DARK DAYS

DON'T COST THIS HOST MUCH
Gunnison, Colo. (AP).—Cloudy days mean free meals to guests of Bert Stitzer's hotel here.

Stitzer has had a standing agreement for 25 years that every day the sun fails to make its appearance, he will foot the dinner checks for all of his patrons.

The last free dinner was served in December, 1924, and was the first since 1922, Stitzer said. His records show that Gunnison in the last 22 years has had only 17 days on which the sun did not shine for at least a few minutes.

Pinechill At Riffon School
A pinechill party will be held at the Rock School house on Thursday evening, April 4, for the benefit of the Rock School. A good time is promised all who attend. Refreshments will be served after the game. There will also be an exhibit of some of the school work done by the children in the unit activity period.

Kingston Takes Over Celtics 30-24 Before 1,300 Crowd at Auditorium; Al Kellett, New Center; Local Star

The Kingston Legionnaires out-scored Joe Lopchick's famous Celtics by six points, 30-24. Tuesday night before 1,300 basketball fans who turned out to witness the big green team's return here for the first in over 10 years and see Al Kellett make his debut as the new center for Frank "Pop" Morgenweck's team.

Although the game was not as fast as others played at the Municipal Auditorium this year, especially the tilt featuring the Renaissance and Philadelphia Hebrews, both of which were lost by Kingston, it gave the fans plenty to cheer about as the Legionnaires had to contend with some of the intricate plays used by the Emeralds and shot from long range.

Al Kellett, the new center obtained from the Boston Trojans, proved the most accurate at distance shooting, pumping in five fields for Kingston from the center of the court during the second period. Kellett's performance in this frame helped the Morgenweckers to take the lead which they never relinquished. His quintet of two-pointers came one after another. He made 11 points, the highest individual score of the game.

Spahn with five fields, three scored in the second period and two in the third, did the best shooting for the Celtics.

The next and last home game for the Legionnaires will be with the Renaissance next Tuesday night, a return duel in which the locals will try to avenge the setback they received from the negroes a few games back.

Celts Take Lead

In last night's fray, the Celtics drew first blood. Pete Barry tossed in a field and so did Dave Banks. Both were long shots. Pat Herley dumped in a foul putting the Emeralds five up on the scoreless Morgenweckers. Then Hank Kurtyka tallied from the baby stripe for Kingston making the tally 5-1 in favor of the Celtics. Banks tossed in another field for the visitors' full seven points of the first period. Then Kurtyka pumped in a shot from Scrimmage and Frank Shimek did likewise. The frame ended with the Greens in front 7-5.

Six times in the second period the score was tied, three times by Kellett's long shots for Kingston, and he finally shot the field that gave them their lead near the end of the stanza.

With the Celtics ahead 7-5, Captain Carl Husta pumped one in from long range and tied the count. Banks made it 9-7 for the Celts and Shimek knotted the tally 9-9. Spahn passed one in for the Emeralds, making the score read 11-9 in their favor. Kellett from half the distance of the court popped in the first of his series of shots and made the tally 11-11. Dutch Dehnert made a field. Kellett dropped in another to tie the score again. Spahn made it 15-13 for the Greens and Kellett came through to balance the count at 15-15. Then he made another long one as the fans cheered. Spahn spoiled the two point lead with a deuce for the Celts. Kellett scored again bringing the Morgenweckers out in front 19-17. Husta made it 21-17 as the whistle blew.

Legionnaires in Van

Taking their place on the court in front for the beginning of the third period, the Legionnaires stayed out in front to win by six points. A foul by Shimek and Husta made the score 23-17 for the locals. Then Banks tossed in a complimentary and Spahn a deuce to bring the Celtics within three points of tying the tally, which was 23-20. Husta put in a field and Kellett a foul for the Morgies, boosting their lead to 26-20. Spahn tallied for the visitors, giving them two more. Husta and Kurtyka contributed fields for Kingston's final 30 and Herley made a deuce for the Celtics' 24 as the game ended.

On The Sidelines

Captain Carl Husta broadened his smile after the game. His boys had come through. They beat his old teammates with whom he spent last season touring the country. And Carl contributed nine points toward the score, his gleamings for the night being second in line for the locals.

"Pop" Morgenweck was a happy man too. However, he thought his boys could have played better ball, and rolled up a higher score if they extended themselves a little more. "Pop" is "harping" on condition now, too, and is urging his men to be in the "pink" physically for their game next week with the Renaissance. "Our customers pay to see the best and that's the kind of ball we want to give them," is his chief admonition to the boys.

Al Kellett, although new to the Legionnaires, was familiar to some of the older fans who remembered him as a member of the old Catskill team some years ago. Al was just a kid then, and still is considered a youngster.

Joe Lopchick, the lanky center of the Celtics, who also is captain and manager of the club, did not appear in uniform last night, because he is unable to play on account of a knee injury. Nat Hickey was on the bench, too, with an injured hand in a plaster cast. However, he took his turn during practice.

Tonight the Celtics will play the Renaissance at Saratoga.

The Legionnaires have two more important games, the one with the Renaissance next Tuesday and the tilt with the Brooklyn Jewels as an exhibition at the 71st Regiment Armory, New York, which is explained in another story.

Pros Are Out to Beat Jones 2nd Comeback In Augusta Tourney

Bobby Not Within Four or Five Shots of His Real Game But May Find Old Form in Competition—Sarazen Choice of the Experts.

Augusta, Ga., April 3 (AP)—The crack brigade of American professional golf brings the long winter campaign to a brilliant climax with a double objective in view, starting tomorrow in the opening round of the Augusta National Golf Club's invitation tournament.

The money-players not only expect to frustrate the second annual comeback attempt of Bobby Jones, one-time world champion, but to give old man par a fearful shelling on the course designed by Jones and considered one of the finest golfing tests in the United States.

It is entirely possible, of course, that the professionals may prove to be wrong on both counts.

Jones, shunning the responsibility he played as No. 1 host here a year ago and doing his best to get back into condition, may suddenly find himself when the tournament pressure is turned on tomorrow. So far as his practice rounds have revealed, however, Bib is not within four or five shots of his best game.

Gene Sarazen has hammered himself down to 7 to 1 and the odds are reasonably short on such other pro favorites as Paul Hutton, Horton Smith, the 1934 winner, Tommy Armour, Ed Dudley, Craig Wood, Henry Picard and Olin Dutra, the national open king.

Sarazen is the hot choice of the experts. Gene has concentrated to such an extent lately on his golf that he is back in championship form.

At least a dozen professionals have been cracking 70 with some regularity. So have several amateurs, including W. Lawson Little, Jr., holder of the British and American championships; Leland Hanman, Texan who holds the trans-Mississippi, and Johnny Dawson of Chicago, a "business man" player.

Jones meanwhile has had trouble keeping even close to par, which is 72 for the 6,700-yard layout.

The entry list includes a host of ex-national champions as well as a recent pro sensations as Ky Lafoon and Picard, one of the year's biggest money winners.

The amateur aces, led by Little, include Charlie Vastard and Jack Munger, Texas stars; Jack Westland of Chicago and Chandler Egan, national title-holder 30 years ago. The "old guard" is topped by Freddy McLeod of Washington, D. C., open champion in 1908.

Begins Drive Against Booring in Basketball

Chicago, April 3 (AP)—Dr. F. C. (Phox) Allen, dean of midwestern basketball coaches, renewed his campaign against the booring spectator in the press committee's report delivered to the National Association of Basketball Coaches here today.

"Public Enemy No. 1 to college and high school basketball is booring," said Allen, the committee chairman.

Large Attendance Is Expected Thursday At Ball Conference

Thursday night, April 4, is the date for the second meeting of baseball enthusiasts interested in the City League and indications are that the session will be largely attended when it is held in the chambers of City Judge Bernard A. Callahan in the city hall with the judge presiding.

Jack Hartman, secretary of the league in past years, excepting last season when it did not materialize, presided at the first meeting held last week and was gratified at the turnout of managers, representing seven teams. He is of the opinion that interest shown at the meeting presages one of the most successful summers ever enjoyed by the league.

All who attended last week's meeting and others interested in the City League are invited to tomorrow evening's session which is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

Latest News from The Baseball Front

By The Associated Press

Jackson, Miss., April 3 (AP)—Clyde Castleman, who hadn't even been heard of by the Giants until last year, appears to have drawn the job as starting pitcher along with the "Big Four." Castleman came to the Giants in 1934 at the suggestion of Chuck Dressen, then Nashville manager.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Col. Jacob Ruppert, the owner, appears satisfied with the 1935 edition of the Yankees at the conclusion of their training period here. He said as much before leaving for New York and added that he didn't believe the absence of Babe Ruth would affect the club.

Orlando, Fla.—Dazzy Vance, trying to make a comeback with his old club, the Dodgers, has struck what he thinks is a winning combination in a uniform. He came out garbed in Lefty O'Doul's pants and Van Mungo's shirt, the former for hitting and the latter for pitching. Incidentally the Dazzler showed enough "stuff" to convey the idea he may earn a regular job.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The Braves start their barnstorming trip northward tonight, with the first scheduled stop Savannah. Rabbit Maranville, who had the last kick removed by Doc Painter of the Yanks yesterday, may get into next Sunday's clash with Newark.

Winter Haven, Fla.—After bearing down in the ninth to defeat the American League champion Detroit Tigers 8 to 6, yesterday at Lakeland, the Cincinnati Reds were in good humor to meet the Phillies here today.

HAL SIMS DOUBTS VALUE OF ACES, KINGS IN BRIDGE

New York, April 3 (AP)—P. Hal Sims is almost ready to believe that aces and kings are not so very important in the great game of contract bridge.

At the end of 59 rubbers in the 150-rubber bridge match between Hal and Dorothy Sims and Ely and Josephine Culbertson, the Culbertsons are leading by 11,340 points, yet the honor count shows them trailing in the number of aces and kings.

The count shows the Simses leading in aces, 743 to 725, and in kings, 754 to 716. The Culbertsons have held more queens, 764 to 704.

The Culbertsons had virtually everything their own way in two short sessions yesterday afternoon and last night, almost doubling their previous lead of 5,340 points. They won six of the seven rubbers played, maximizing their streak by taking off the last rubber of the night by a margin of 2,010 points. Their present lead of 11,340 is the largest they have held since the match began last week. The Simses have been in the lead only once—at the close of the first night's play.

The Culbertsons have now won 25 rubbers and the Simses 24. The point score stands 54,160 to 42,820.

SIXTEEN SURVIVORS IN THE NORTH-SOUTH GOLF TOURNEY.

Pinetown, N. C., April 3 (AP)—Three pre-tournament favorites, Dick Chapman, Jack Ryerson and M. Pierpont Warner, were out of the picture today as 16 survivors took up their clubs for the second round of the North and South Amateur Golf Championship.

Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., bowed to Howard Tron of Elmira, N. Y., 6 and 4. George T. Lusk, Jr., of New Gardens, N. Y., the defending champion, was paired today with W. Stanton Barber of Bronxville, N. Y.

Brooklyn and Hebrews in Playoff; Legionnaires to Meet The Jewels In Exhibition at the 71st Armory

The second half of the American Basketball League terminated in a tie between Brooklyn Visitation and Philadelphia Hebrews. In order to break this deadlock, a series of the best two out of three games will be played, starting on Friday night at the 71st Regiment Armory, 34th street and Park avenue, New York.

The second game will be played in Philadelphia on Saturday evening, April 6. So as not to unnecessarily handicap the New York Jewels, winners of the first half championship of the American League, while waiting the outcome of this tie series, before the final playoff is staged between the winners of both the first and second halves, the both contesting teams have arranged for the Jewels to meet the Kingston Legionnaires.

This unusually strong aggregation defeated Buffalo for the titular honors in the New York State Professional League during 1934-35, and this game will mark the first appearance of the up-state champions on any American League court this season.

Both Philadelphia and Brooklyn have already played each other on eight occasions, with an even split of four victories apiece. Philadelphia defeated Brooklyn once on the latter's court and Visitation did likewise in Philadelphia. In the eight games played Philadelphia scored 240 points marked difference exists in the type of game played by these two contenders for this year's championship. Brooklyn has three men in the point scoring leaders, while Philadelphia has two. Brooklyn is a club that has been assembled almost entirely this season through the constant experiments of Manager Donion, who has tried out seven different basketball stars in order to hit on the present combination that has fared so well in the second half of the season. Philadelphia, on the other hand, has been content to standby the strong collection that not only won the American League but was a year ago, but the World's Professional Championship as well. The only addition to the Quaker City group has been the recent signing of Rosen, captain of Temple University varsity team of 1934-35.

Final Standing

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Philadelphia	12	7	.632
Brooklyn	12	7	.632
New Britain	9	9	.500
Jersey Reds	8	9	.500
New York Jewels	8	10	.444
Boston Trojans	4	12	.250

Schedule for playoff of second half tie:

Friday, April 5—Philadelphia Hebrews vs. Brooklyn Visitation, 71st Regiment Armory, N. Y.

Added attraction: Kingston Legionnaires, winners of New York State Basketball League title, 1934-35, vs. New York Jewels, winners of American League title, first half, 1934-35.

Saturday, April 6—Brooklyn Visitation vs. Philadelphia Hebrews at Philadelphia.

World Series Proposed For College Ball Teams

New York, April 3 (AP)—A college baseball "world series" featuring eight outstanding American teams and possibly a representative from Japan, may be held in one of New York's major league parks this summer.

Andy Coakley, for 21 years baseball coach at Columbia University, announced today he had written to the supervisors of several national intercollegiate athletic conferences regarding the plan and that responses from them all had been enthusiastic.

While plans for the series are in a formative state, the tournament would be held either in the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds—possibly in both—the week of June 24, by which time all colleges are closed and there would be no interference with the players' class work.

Four days would be required to operate the tournament. Four teams would engage in double-headers on Monday, four more on Tuesday, two on Thursday and the championship, a one-game affair, would be played on Saturday. The victorious college would receive a cup and the individual players medals.

Invitations to participate in the series have been issued to the Big Ten, Big Six, Pacific Coast, Southern, Southern and Southern conferences, and the Eastern intercollegiate League.

Coakley said he had not yet communicated with Japanese representatives, preferring to wait until plans are more definite.

The only hitch in the plan is the matter of obtaining financial support. Several plans are under consideration with alumni of colleges in the Eastern League said to be willing to underwrite the tournament.

Legalized Lotteries Drive Gains in State

Albany, N. Y., April 3 (AP).—New Impetus was given the drive to legalize lotteries in New York state today with the announcement that the Berg bills will be re-considered this week by the Senate Public Welfare Committee.

Senator Frank B. Hendel, Queens Democrat who heads the committee, made the announcement yesterday.

The bills, sponsored by Senator Julius S. Berg, Bronx Democrat, would permit the state and municipalities to conduct lotteries for unemployment relief. He has amended them in an effort to eliminate complaints of unconstitutionality.

LOCAL CATHOLIC CHARITIES AGENT OUTLINES ITS WORK

Addressing members of the Children of Mary Sodality of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 467 Delaware avenue, Tuesday night, Mrs. Margaret O'Brien of Kingston, Ulster county agent of Catholic Charities, described the working of 212 agencies of her organization in the archdiocese of New York.

"Embracing three boroughs of greater New York and Westchester, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess, Rockland, Ulster and Sullivan counties," Mrs. O'Brien said, "our charities function for a Catholic population of more than a million and a quarter. The handling of the social welfare work therefore involves not only a large but closely knit, carefully organized and trained personnel. We divide our work generally between child care under which there are 72 different agencies including 24 institutions; health which embraces 24 general and special hospitals maintained at a cost of more than $3,000,000.00 last year; division of families with branches in seven counties, which last year assisted more than 14,000 families; and the division of social action, with more than 153 camps, settlements, homes, clubs and scouting units under its auspices."

Mrs. O'Brien spoke particularly of Ulster county institutions describing Sacred Heart Orphan Asylum at West Park, where more than 200 girls from two to 16 years of age are cared for by the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart. Mrs. O'Brien dwelt particularly upon the exceptional health and vocational training programs at Sacred Heart. Our Lady of Victory Hospital at Kingston is another Ulster county Catholic institution. The hospital maintains 100 beds and last year treated more than 3,000 patients of whom about one half paid their expenses.

Three Persons Killed In Tenement Blaze

New York, April 3 (AP).—Three persons lost their lives and two were seriously burned in a fire which swept a Bronx tenement (at 473 Brook avenue) early today.

The victims were members of the family of William Doppio, who lived on the third floor of the building. Members of seven other families escaped.

The dead were: Mrs. Mary Doppio, 44, and two children, John, 23, and Florence, 11.

The father, William, 42, and a son, Nicholas, 14, are in Lincoln Hospital in a critical condition.

Another son, Vito Doppio, 22, escaped after he had aroused the other members of the family. Firemen said the others were overcome when they opened the door of their apartment, allowing flames to sweep into the place.

The fire started in a first-floor market owned by the Doppio family and the flames shot up a wooden stairway.

If there is another war in Europe maybe they will want us to come over and make the world safe for the debtors.

FORD

Strikes a new note in INTERIOR DESIGN-

THE MODERN MOTIF—Red and black accentuate the instruments, making them easier to see. Control knobs and cigarette lighter are ivory colored plastic. Center striping is chromium. Convenient glove compartment. Everything is designed to be thoroughly useful, first, and functional beauty inevitably follows.

EXPERTS in color design are enthusiastic about the new Ford Deluxe interiors. They have "spotted" immediately a new note in interior design—the subtle use of taupe grey as a background for feminine costumes.

Window moldings, door handles, the instrument panel and even the beautiful, slim steering wheel, are all finished in blended greys. This color scheme cannot possibly clash with even the most brilliant ensemble. On the contrary, it will accentuate it.

And the upholstery!... Here beauty is coupled with long-wearing quality characteristic of custom built cars. In all Ford Deluxe closed cars you have your choice of two materials at no extra cost. Mohair or soft, pin-stripe Broadcloth in Sedans and Coupes. Bedford Cord or one hundred percent Wool Suede in Touring Sedans.

See the stylish, new Ford interiors at your nearest Ford Dealer's today.
